NAZI TORTURE CHIEF TO DIE

Lt. Gen. Pohl, 14 Other Nazis Convicted; Called "Monsters of Depravity."

By The Associated Press

NUERNBERG, GERMANY, Nov. 3—Lt. Gen. Oswald Pohl, the swarthy SS officer who operated German concentration camps where millions died, was sentenced today to hang for war crimes and crimes against humanity.

Fourteen others were convicted and three were acquitted by the American tribunal, which ruled for the first time that a German SS operative could be considered innocent of war crimes if it was not proved that he knew the intent of the SS to be criminal.

Pohl, 55 and black-eyed, accepted his doom with a curt nod. In his days of power, he had accepted orders only from Heinrich Himmler, the gestapo chieftain, and Adolf Hitler.

The court, headed by Judge Robert M. Toms of Detroit, said that in addition to Pohl, these defendants were guilty of murders, tortures, deportations, enslavement of whole populations and plunder of property:

Gen. August Frank and Gen. Loerner, deputies of Pohl; Gen. Karl Fanslau; Colonels Herman Pook, Hans Loerner, Erwin Tschentscher, Max Kiefer, Franz Eirenschmalz, Hans Heinrich Baier, Karl Mummenthey and Hans Robermin; Maj. Karl Sommer; Capt. Leo Volk; and Hans Hohberg, a civilian.

The group constituted the economic administration branch of the SS which provided, operated and supplied the camps.

Acquitted were Colonel Joseph Vogt, Rudolf Scheide and Horst Klein. The tribunal ruled that evidence was inconclusive in their cases.

The verdict declared the convicted men were "monsters of depravity."

TRUMAN'S PLAN FOR EUROPEAN AID CRITICIZED

Pattern Based on Report of Advisory Group Under Fire of G.O.P.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3—President Truman's probable program for helping Europe while fighting prices at home emerged today in a pattern likely to crash into Republican opposition on several fronts.

Continued high taxes, strong anti-inflation controls and "outright gifts" abroad all were urged by the President's council of economic advisers. And all seemed certain to provoke sharp outcries from many GOP legislators.

In a weekend report to Mr. Truman on what this country can do to carry out Secretary of State Marshall's plan of helping Europe help itself, the council said the United States is well able to finance its share of the $22,000,000,000 program.

But the advisory group cautioned that the inflationary risk involved will require government allocations of some scarce foods and other goods, control over sepculation, new credit curbs and—if these fail—possibly some form of price control.

Attack Launched

Several Republicans already had criticized Mr. Truman's emphasis on high prices in his call for the November 17 special session, and Carroll Reece, chairman of the Republican national committee, loosed a fresh blast almost simultaneously with the council's report.

The G.O.P. chairman contended that in giving anti-inflation action "equal, if not preferred priority" over foreign relief, the President is again seeking to disclaim responsibility for the evils made inevitable by the policies of his own administration. He said Mr. Truman had previously assured G.O.P. leaders that foreign aid would be the primary, if not the sole purpose of any special session.

And the economic council's emphatic call for continued high taxes, as a means of helping Europe and simultaneously reducing the national debt, ran squarely athwart new tax-cutting plans announced by Rep. Knuutson (R-Minn.)

Knutson Prepares Bill

Knutson reported that he will have a $4,000,000,000 income tax reduction bill ready for submission "at high noon Nov. 17"—the hour that congress convenes. The Minnesotan is chairman of the house ways and means committee and author of twice-vetoed tax bills in the last session.

Meanwhile it was learned that the administration probably will ask congress to provide Europe with more than $3,000,000,000 in the form of gifts during the first year of the Marshall's plan, in addition to repayable loans.

There seemingly is agreement among both American and European officials that perhaps 60 per cent of next year's aid under the Marshall program should be furnished without asking repayment. The administration is expected to seek between $6,000,000,000 and $7,000,000,000 in aid next year as the first step in the four-year recovery drive of 16 western European nations.

LASHES SOVIET ACTION IN UN

Vandenberg Sharply Critical of Russia in University of Michigan Address.

By The Associated Press

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 3—Senate President Arthur H. Vandenberg, (R) of Michigan, lashed out at Soviet tactics in the United Nations today and said the responsibility would be "crystal clear" if UN failed to save the peace.

At the same time, the Republican foreign policy leader said in a speech here that a separate peace should be written for the American-British-French zones of Germany if Russian demands produced a deadlock coming London conference of foreign ministers.

Mr. Vandenberg called on the United States to continue steps to make the UN effective particularly by restricting the use of the veto—but said it must be sure in the meantime to maintain a "totally adequate American national defense."

Only Another Truce

Unless allied wartime unity can be reestablished, he warned, the present period may prove to be "only another truce before aggression."

Mr. Vandenberg addressed a special convocation at the University of Michigan, honoring the 100th anniversary of Dutch migration to Michigan and the midwest.

He hit hard at Soviet tactics "which most of us believe are incompatible with the peace. And in equally strong terms he denounced what he called "subversive infiltration" of non-Communist states and the forceful imposition of police state rigors "wherever Communism gets control."

Mr. Vandenberg declared that the world forum provided by UN has spotlighted Russia's design for a post-war world.

"Without the United Nations the Soviet Union and its satellites would have gone their own way to their own ends," he said.

Defends UN

Defending the UN from those who dismiss it as a "total loss," Mr. Vandenberg counseled the U.S. to continue its efforts to modify the veto voting procedure through which the Soviets have "virtually paralyzed" the security council. The veto, he said, must be limited solely to the use of armed force in setting international disputes and never to steps short of war.

His address, coming amid ever-sharpening U.S.-Soviet clashes at the current UN general assembly session, was regarded as an assurance of continued Republican party support for the peace organization's long-range objectives.

Mr. Vandenberg also struck back at charges of U.S. "war-mongering" by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky. He termed the attacks "the most amazing anti-American vilification which ever belabored the ears of the world. We are curiously called 'Hitlerites' by critics who seem to forget that they, not we, were once in bed with him."

GOOD TURNOUT AT POLLS SEEN HERE TUESDAY

Forecast Ohio Balloting Also To Be Brisk; Many States Voting.

Marion county voters who will ballot tomorrow on local officials and special issues will be among approximately 2,000,000 persons to cast their vote at the polls throughout the state.

The off-year election is estimated to draw a total vote in Ohio of within 10 to 15 per cent of the 1946 election.

In the nation, mayors of scores of cities will be elected and voting in several states will have a national aspect.

A senator will be elected in Mississippi, a governor in Kentucky and a number of congressmen in Ohio.

Better Than Average Vote Expected Here

A "better than average" vote for an off-year election in Marion county was predicted at the board of elections today as last-minute preparations for handling returns from the polls Tuesday were being completed.

Offsetting the general lack of interest in an off-year election is the soldiers' bonus amendment to the state Constitution which it is predicted will bring many veterans and their families to the polls.

Of the other four proposed constitutional amendments on the ballot, only the liquid fuels tax anti-diversion amendment appears to have stimulated any marked degree of interest.

Vote on Coliseum

On the local level public interest is apparently not running high despite the fact that a tax levy for the construction of a proposed coliseum at the county fairgrounds is on the ballot.

In addition to the election of city officials in Marion and the other incorporated towns in the county, township officials and members of board of education will be elected. Seven areas of the county will also vote on tax levies and bond issues for local needs, principally school levies.

The 57 polling places in the county are scheduled to open at 6:30 a. m. and will close at 6:30 p. m. Supplies for the city precincts were distributed this afternoon while most of the presiding judges in the rural precincts having called for their materials Saturday.

Five Ballots in City

Voters appearing at the 30 city polling places will have five ballots to consider. These include in addition to the municipal ballot, the board of education and township clerk and trustee, judicial ballot for election of municipal judge, state constitutional amendments and the agricultural tax levy for the coliseum.

Due to an error in the list of municipal candidates carried in The Star Saturday, the names of Fifth ward candidates for city council were omitted. They are: Herman M. Miller (R), Walter E. Haberman (D) and Vincent R. Clement (Ind).

Two Million Votes Forecast in State

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 3—Candidates for municipal offices wound up spirited campaigns in many Ohio cities today and awaited the verdict of the electorate in tomorrow's local elections, which are expected to attract a record vote for a non-gubernatorial year.

The only statewide voting will be on four proposed amendments to the state constitution. One of these proposals — payment of a $300,000,000 soldier bonus to Ohio veterans of World War II—had the backing of five major veterans organizations which have been working to get out a big majority in favor of the bonus.

A total vote approximating 2,000,000, within 10 to 15 per cent of the 1946 total of 2,303,750, was forecast by state election officials. Former service men were said to

Hughes Lifts Giant Flying Boat From Water in First Test Hop

By The Associated Press

LONG BEACH, Calif., Nov. 3—Howard Hughes' $25,000,000 flying lumberyard has tested its wings, and they work.

Acting on impulse, the millionaire sportsman-film producer-planemaker-tool manufacturer took the 400,000 pound flying plywood giant aloft yesterday at the end of what he earlier had announced would be a mere taxiing test.

The dark-haired 43 year old Hughes had made two taxi runs over the choppy surface of Los Angeles-Long Beach harbor while a throng of thousands "ohed" and "ahed" over the plywood boat's immensity. Then, on the third run, after its eight 3,000 horsepower engines had speeded it to about 100 miles an hour, Hughes eased back on the hydraulic controls, and the monster was airborne.

Decided To Go Up

"The buoyancy felt so good that I decided to take it up," Hughes grinned at an informal press conference immediately afterward.

Some thirty of Hughes' aides—technicians, engineers and observers—were aboard the plane, largest ever made, on its maiden flight. In the co-pilot's seat was Dave Grant, Los Angeles, Hughes' chief hydraulic engineer. An observer for the civil acronautics administration also was aboard.

Hughes said he is "thoroughly satisfied" with the performance of the craft, which flew approximately a mile at a maximum height of about 70 feet. Earlier in the day he told a news conference that he couldn't be certain that his great craft, 219 feet long and with a wing span of 320 feet, would fly at all.

"No one can ever be certain that an experimental plane will fly," he said.

Hughes Is Happy

Hughes, normally a taciturn man, was fairly oozing happiness from his pores when he talked with newsmen after the hop.

"I was very, very happy over the way the controls operated," he said. "I think the airplane is going to be fairly successful."

When the ship was flown, a senate committee was preparing to resume its inquiry Wednesday into Hughes' war contracts, an investigation in which the sky goliath was a central figure. In Washington, Senator Brewster (R-Me.) said, when apprised of the successful hop:

"Nothing could be more gratifying than to have it a grand success."

PLANES PUSH AID INTO QUAKE AREA

At Least 50 Reported Killed in Peru.

By The Associated Press

LIMA, PERU, Nov. 3—Planes bearing nurses, medicine and food were dispatched today to stricken areas in the mountains of Peru where an earthquake shattered the peace of All Saints day Saturday, killing at least 50 persons and reportedly demolishing two Andes towns.

Government officials said bad weather and quake-ruined runways had prevented planes from landing in the affected zones.

Poor communications from the isolated mountain area where the quake struck obscured details of the damage, but officials dispatches said San Ramon and neighboring La Merced, both about 130 miles northeast of Lima, had been "totally destroyed." Each town has a population of about 5,000.

Reports indicated that the heaviest loss of life was at Satipo, 165 miles east of Lima, where dispatches said at least 40 had been killed and many injured.

The Lima newspaper El Comercio published a report by the mayor of San Ramon that seven men had been killed and seven injured at San Felix near San Ramon.

The mayor of La Merced was quoted as saying about 80 per cent of the buildings were razed in the town and that residents were camping out in a heavy tropical rain.

UNION VOTES TO TAKE OFFER

Membership Check and 15 Per Cent Raise Included in Agreement.

Special to The Star

GALION, Nov. 3—The North Electric Manufacturing Company will resume work Tuesday morning, it was announced today by R. K. McCarty, vice president. The announcement was made Saturday night following the signing of the agreement at 6 p. m., Saturday, in the Municipal building between the management and the United Auto Workers (CIO). The agreement was signed by R. K. McCarty, vice president of the company, and by Richard Gosser of Toledo, UAW regional director, Edward J. Duck, UAW international representative, and Herbert Arnold, chairman of the Galion Local 951 UAW.

The agreement was accepted by 90 per cent of the union members present at the 2 p. m., meeting Saturday in Maccabee hall, here.

80 Attend Meeting

Prior to the vote by the union members, Herbert Arnold opened the meeting which was attended by about 80 persons. Arnold said he was pleased with the number of people who showed up. Duck was sharply critical of the two-day hearing conducted last week by a three-man congressional subcommittee headed by Rep. Clare E. Hoffman (R-Mich.) and including Rep. Walter Brehm (R-Ohio) and Rep. Frederick C. Smith (R-Ohio).

"I think democracy reached a very low ebb in Galion with the presence of the three tory congressmen," Duck said. He charged the union was not permitted by the congressmen to refute "false accusations made by false stooges and false company officials." He charged "that the congressmen were brought in to break the strike."

Richard Gosser declared that the union accepted the agreement "with protest" and she charged that the company would attempt to terminate the agreement under a clause which provides that "if and when any group of employes" files a petition with the NLRB claiming majority representation, "any and all negotiations shall cease."

To Check Cards

The agreement signed provides that the union would submit its signed membership cards to an arbiter to be appointed by the U. S. mediation and conciliation service for a cross-check with the company's employe list as of Aug. 10, the day before the strike started. If the cross-check to be completed by Nov. 15, shows the union to have a majority representation then the company agrees to open negotiations for a wage and hour contract. The union claims 325 pledge cards signed.

Workers will return to their jobs under a wage rate 15 per cent higher than prevailed when the strike was called. The wage rate was put into effect as of Sept. 1, company officials stated. Production workers who worked during the back-to-work movement, Oct. 13 to Oct. 22, were paid the 15 per cent increase. Saturday's agreement provided for no wage terms.

Wages when the strike was called varied from 65 cents per hour to $1.40 an hour.

The agreement accepted Saturday was signed on the seventy-fourth day of the strike.

On one occasion some 350 non-strikers were marooned in the besieged plant until after night by pickets who stoned the buildings and smashed numerous windows. A night earlier a masked mob of about 20 men invaded the company's Kenton plant, overpowered the night watchman, and wrecked machinery.

The Galion plant employs some 800 men in the manufacture of automatic telephone switchboard equipment.

POLISH LEADER FINDS REFUGE IN ENGLAND

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 3—Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, the Polish opposition leader who fled from Warsaw two weeks ago, has made his way to Britain by plane, a foreign official notified a cheering house of commons today. The British government has promised Mikolajczyk sanctuary.

Christopher Mayhew, undersecretary of state for foreign affairs, said the plane carrying the 46-year-old leader of the Polish Peasant party had landed at Manston airfield, southeast of London in Kent county. There was no immediate indication as to the nationality or the type of aircraft in which Mikolajczyk arrived in Britain.

Mikolajczyk's whereabouts had remained a mystery until today. Apparently he fled Poland in fear of his life. Since his departure from his homeland with a party of seven friends his Polish Peasant party has been remodeled along lines favorable to Poland's Communist-led government. Informants in Warsaw have declared that Mikolajczyk's departure meant the end to organized political opposition to the present Polish regime.

A Polish foreign ministry spokesman announced in Warsaw today that a special Polish parliamentary commission was investigating the circumstances surrounding Mikolajczyk's flight.

COMMUNITY FUND TOTAL NOW $40,209

Reports Still Come In as Drive Is Extended.

Reports turned in at the Community Chest campaign headquarters Saturday brought total shares in Marion Future to $40,209.85, figures show. The goal to finance agencies comprising the Marion Community Foundation is $80,043.

Scattered reports are being received daily from the workers, and calls also are being received at campaign headquarters asking if solicitors will call for contributins to the fund.

A meeting of the executive board of the foundation has been called for tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the foundation headquarters and at this time dates will be set for report meetings and other details worked out for continuing the drive.

Friday, Oct. 31 was originally set for the end of the campaign but due to the fact that many of the workers had not completed their canvass, the time was extended to Nov. 11.

MARSHALL SETS WAR DEAD AT 15 MILLION

By International News Service

CHICAGO, Nov. 2—Secretary of State George C. Marshall declared in a statement released today that World War II losses in military personnel "exceeded 15,000,000."

Marshall's figure was contained in an entry on "conclusions" written by him in the "World War II" section of the Encyclopaedia Brittanica's "Ten Eventful Years." The publication covers the years 1937 to 1936.

The wartime army chief of staff limited his war loss computation to those killed and missing in action who fought with the principal belligerents, both allied and axis. He asserted:

"The very considerable costs to the smaller countries, particularly Poland and the nations in

BOY, 12, CONFESSES SLAYING COMPANION

Killer Described by Mother as "Smart Alec."

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 3—Authorities announced today the mysterious brutal slaying of a seven-year-old boy had been solved by a fifth-grade pupil's signed statement that "I killed Lonnie Fellick last Oct. 18 in Thatcher woods forest preserve."

Lonnie's battered body was found in the preserve on Oct. 29, 11 days after he disappeared from his home.

Coroner A. L. Brodie said Howard Lang, 12, described by his mother as a "smart alec," told him he had stabbed Lonnie and crushed the younger boy's head with a brick" after an argument.

In a statement which young Lang signed after a 15-hour interrogation at the juvenile home, Brodie said a nine-year-old boy and a 17-year-old girl were implicated.

AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSION 1948 BUICKS ANNOUNCED

By The Associated Press

FLINT, Mich., Nov. 3—Buick Motor company today announced it will introduce a "completely new and different" type of automatic transmission in its 1948 automobiles, scheduled for January production.

Buick General Manager Harlow Curtice said the new transmission was the "answer to no-shift, clutchless driving" which "eliminates not only the clutch but all gear shifting, even automatic."

The new transmission, to be introduced initially on Roadmaster models, is a development of the principle in the transmission used on Buick-built "Hellcat" tank destroyers during the war, Curtice declared.

Give Aid and Freedom To Stricken Countries, Byrnes Says in Closing

This is a serialization of James F. Byrnes' "Speaking Frankly"—six of fifteen chapters of the book published Oct. 15, 1947, by Harper & Brothers. Copyright, 1947, by Donald S. Russell, trustee of the James F. Byrnes Foundation.

By JAMES F. BYRNES

IN THE preceding chapters, I have tried to indicate where we are and how we got here. I have done so in the hope that it may help us to decide what to do and how to do it. Having gone thus far, I feel I should not avoid drawing out of my experience some thoughts on the question that is disturbing all of us: Where do we go from here?

There is no easy answer. For the ills of a war-torn world there are no speedy cures, no panaceas. I believe that mankind can build a lasting and a just peace. And I believe, also, that we must guard equally against the ready optimists who believe that only an act of faith is necessary to do it, and the reckless pessimists who are convinced that only another war can do it.

I believe we should immediately seek the early conclusion of treaties with Austria, Germany and Japan. In preceding chapters I have suggested the course I would follow to secure those treaties and I earnestly hope the Soviet Union will see the wisdom of joining in this endeavor. But Russia's opposition must not deter the other nations from a course they know is right and indispensable to the reconstruction of the world. It is a course that requires dedication to the principle of collective action. It requires courage.

Even as we plan these peace settlements, many developments abroad have made us question the permanency of the peace. Ever since the war ended in Europe, we have had reason for concern in the Soviet attitude toward Greece and Turkey. The gallant Greeks, by their heroic stand against the Italians and later the Nazis, won the admiration of liberty-loving people the world over. Unfortunately, the withdrawal of enemy troops did not bring the difficulties and sufferings of the Greek people to an end. Almost immediately they were confronted with civil war. The Greek government believed the attacks were inspired, and certainly encouraged, by the Soviet satellites.

Greek Guerrillas Busy

British troops finally took a hand and restored order. But since the summer of 1945, there has been unrest in Greece. Guerrilla warfare in the areas adjoining Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria has kept the Greek army occupied and prevented the restoration of the shattered economy of Greece. The Greek government believes that guerrilla troops trained in Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria cross the border and, after raiding a community, return to foreign territory.

A somewhat similar situation existed in Turkey. Economic conditions in Turkey were better than in Greece, but Turkey's sovereignty was—and is—in just as much, if not greater danger. There may be some debate about the aspirations of the Soviet Union in Greece but there is no doubt about its aspirations in Turkey.

This was the situation on January 20, 1947, when I left the department of state. About March 1, the British government informed the United States that it could give no further economic or military aid to Greece and Turkey after March 31.

Truman Gives Report

On March 12, 1947, President Truman appeared before the congress. He said that the United States had received from the Greek government an urgent appeal for economic and military assistance without which Greece could not survive as a free nation. Britain, he said, was no longer able to furnish the necessary assistance.

"We must assist free peoples to work out their own destiny in their own way," President Truman declared. He urged congress to appropriate 400 million dollars to aid Greece and Turkey with supplies and military equipment for the period ending June 30, 1948. In addition, he asked for authority to detail American military personnel to Greece and Turkey for the instruction and training of selected Turkish and Greek personnel.

Without having firsthand information, I am of the opinion that the disastrous weather conditions in Britain last winter, the labor strikes, and, particularly, the shortage of dollars, all combined to make British treasury officials nervous, influencing the British government to give us sudden notice of their intention to withdraw assistance from Turkey and Greece by March 31.

U. S. Aid Proposed

I did not misjudge them—their troops are still in Greece as of this date, July 1. They are reported to have approximately 8,000 troops there. We propose to send not more than 75 Army and Navy officers. Even our military authorities would admit that 75 American officers could not take the place of 8,000 British soldiers in protecting Greece against aggression. But the knowledge that we stand ready to do whatever is necessary to protect Greece against aggression gives comfort to the Greeks and a warning to potential aggressors.

While I think the British acted nervously in announcing withdrawal of assistance from these countries, I believe we were equally nervous—but right—in our response to this notification. I say we were "right" because, under the circumstances, we could not refuse to help. I say "nervous" because of some of the reasons given for the assistance; reasons which seemed to imply that we would oppose the efforts of Communists in any country to gain control of the government, even when they acted without the inteference of a foreign government and through the free votes of their own people.

Aid Justified

We were justified in furnishing military supplies. We did not have to decide that the Turkish government and the Greek monarchy were outstanding examples of free and democratic governments. We were not interfering in the internal affairs of those states. Greece had complained to the security council that her border was being violated by nationals of Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Albania. If true, and if the aggression was countenanced by these governments, it constituted a threat to the peace of the world.

Senator Vandenburg made the position of the United States clear when he offered, and the senate adopted, an amendment to the resolution authorizing assistance, which recognizes the right of the United Nations to assume jurisdiction over the situation in Greece and Turkey whenever it considers such action desirable.

Today the United Nations has no military force—owing again to the delaying tactics of the Soviet representative on the military staff committee of the security council. The United States as one of the sponsors of the United Nations was compelled to let the Soviet government and the world know that while the security council was investigating alleged acts of aggression against the Greek government, we would act to maintain the status quo until the council could reach a decision, or had the military strength to control the situation. We were helping, not harming, the United Nations. And until it has such strength we must maintain the status quo in Turkey.

Dangerous Situation

At all these points of present danger to the peace of the world—Iran, Greece, Turkey, Hungary and the other Balkan states—it can be argued that the national interest of the Soviet Union is involved or that fear and suspicion prompt her action. That may be true, but the unilateral pursuit of national interest, plus fear and suspicion, can lead to conflict—conflict that is contrary to the interest of all peoples.

Changes in power relations always tend to create uneasiness in the world. Russia long has been an important power, but never before has it been so clearly the dominant power on the European continent. When the power of any state has greatly increased, there naturally is concern regarding its possible further expansion. This is particularly true when the leaders of the expanding state have an aggressive ideology.

There is particular uneasiness in the world when a power—like the Soviet Union—acquires great strength in relation to others, but lags behind them in its own internal standard of living.

Other governments besides the Soviet Union seeks territory. France wants the Saar. Greece has expressed a desire to annex Epirus. The Netherlands desires a slice of German territory adjoining its border. Belgium also may ask for adjoining German territory. The difference is that these governments seek changes through international machinery, either the peace conference or the council of foreign ministers, whereas the Soviets apparently prefer to seek changes through unilateral action. That action frequently takes the course of political infiltration.

The Charter of the United Nations pledges all members to "refrain from the threat or use of force against the territorial integrity or political independence of any state." The definition is not restricted to armed invasion. It can mean coercion, pressure or subterfuge such as political infiltration.

The threat of political infiltration is especially grave in the countries whose political and economic structures were shattered by the war. Inevitably, it provokes countermeasures in retaliation. A situation can readily develop where all concerned come to believe they are acting in self-defense. Soon it becomes possible for a spark to staart a fire that may engulf the whole world.

If we are to prevent such a holocaust, not only must we halt acts of aggression, but we must seek to eradicate the causes of those acts.

OSES ISSUES LABOR REPORT

ployment from July to October Fails To Reach Expected Levels.

According to records in the Marion office of the Ohio State Employment Service, between July and October employment in Marion firms continued to rise, increasing 7.6 to a total employment figure of 8,075. Nearly half of this increase was predicted by employers in July. Also October employers' expectations showed a slight decline of 25 rather than a rise—from July to October female employment in the 34 industries dropped from 1,514 to 1,489.

Failure to reach anticipated levels was blamed upon the slow receipt of materials, Fred B Scherff, manager of the Marion office of the OSES said. Many students returning to schools were not replaced because of the material shortages and lack of sufficient business activity.

Future Outlook

It is anticipated that total employment in the surveyed concerns will continue to fall off slightly during the next month, according to Mr. Scherff. He further advised that the decline is expected to occur in the non-electrical machinery manufacturing industries because of the short supply of material. Additions in other firms, particularly women in retail trade as it expands for the Christmas season, will be offset by this decrease. Workers needed to operate heating equipment during the winter months will also be hired in non-manufacturing firms.

According to the OSES records, the number of job seekers registered with the OSES increased 26 per cent since last month to 784 on Oct. 1. This was the highest level since February of this year and more than 50 per cent higher than one year ago. Men accounted for most of the gain and currently total 490, of which nearly three out of five are veterans.

Rate of Turnover

Turnover rates for the 34 selected major industries in Marion show that the hiring rate has been lower than the separation rate for every month except June since April, 1947—an indication of declining employment. Turnover in the Marion plants was somewhat below that of 2,300 firms throughout Ohio—the state rate was 5.3 separations per 100 workers and 4.9 hires per 100 workers, and the Marion rate was 4.9 separation per 100 workers, and 3.7 hires per 100 workers.

The average weekly volume of persons claiming unemployment benefits through the Marion office jumped 47 per cent from August to reach 255 by Oct. 1. Mr Scherff advised that much of the increase was due to temporary layoffs caused by lack of materials.

FIVE MINOR AUTO ACCIDENTS REPORTED

Bike Rider Suffers Slight Injury in Mishap.

Five minor weekend traffic accidents and one minor injury were reported by city police.

John F. Gleason, 19, of Adams street, suffered a small cut over his eye when the bicycle he was riding crashed into the rear of a car operated by Dale R. Healer, 21, of 606 Wilson at 5:30 p. m. Saturday. The accident occurred on East Court street, police said.

Cars driven by James L. Kirby, 62, of 322 Silver street, and Robert Allen Weiler, 27, of near Marion, figured in a minor collision at 11:20 a. m. Saturday when the Weiler car pulled out of an alley intersecting Mill street and struck the rear of the Kirby auto. Damage was slight.

The city parking lot was the scene of a collision at 4:30 p. m. Saturday when cars driven by Dale Amerine, 19, of near Marion, and Joe M. Conroy, whose address was not listed by police, attempted to pull into the parking lot driveway at the same time and collided. No damage was reported.

An auto operated by Richard E. Daum, 21, of near Marion crashed into the rear of a parked car on North Prospect street belonging to Vance Mouser of 300 South Prospect street at 11:21 p. m. Saturday. Damage was slight.

George Growder of Columbus was backing his car into a parking space on North State street at 1:10 p. m. yesterday, when he crashed into the front of a parked car belonging to Dewey E. Oldfield Jr., 22, of near Marion. Slight damage was reported to the fenders and grill of the Oldfield auto.

A Marion student, Charles Roberts, was chosen president of the student body at DePauw university, Greencastle, Ind., in an election held recently. He is a senior at the university where he is majoring in economics. He is the son of Mrs. Chester C. Roberts of South Vine street.

A graduate of Harding High school in 1942 Mr. Roberts attended DePauw for a year before entering the U. S. Navy. After entering service he attended DePauw in the Navy program and later was graduated as an ensign from midshipman school in Chicago. He resumed his studies after two years' service.

Active in sports at Harding he continued his interest at college where he played basketball and is on the football squad. He is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

ELECTION

make up more than half of the unusually heavy new registration.

Congressional Contest

The special election in the Fourth congressional district of northwestern Ohio offered the only clear-cut contest between Democrats and Republicans, but political observers also counted on mayoralty races to give an inkling of comparative party strength in Ohio where political trends may become a major factor in the 1948 presidential election.

The special election in the Fourth district was called to name a successor to Robert Jones, Republican, who resigned to become a member of the federal communications commission.

Republicans asserted their nominee, William M. McCulloch, former speaker of the Ohio house, was certain of victory over Joseph B. Quatman, Democrat. The district has been normally Republican for the last 10 years and, while an upset was considered unlikely, politicians had a lively interest in whether the voting would show an increase or decrease in Republican strength in a "grass-roots" Ohio district.

Important Mayoralty Race

Politicians, with an eye on next year, also awaited the outcome of the mayoralty election in industrial Cleveland. Mayor Thomas A. Burke, Democrat, seeking re-election, had the support of organized labor, and his Republican opponent, Eliot Ness, had the backing of the regular G. O. P. organization headed by Rep. George Bender (R-Ohio). Burke, by reason of his strong showing in the August primary, was rated the favorite.

Reports from county boards of election showed that 690 tax levies will be passed on in virtually every county of the state. The levies are chiefly for schools or general operation and many are extensions of existing levies.

188 Bond Issues Listed

Also submitted for approval of the voters will be 188 bond issues running into millions of dollars. Most of them are for school buildings or additions and improvements to existing schools.

A total of 94 local option questions will be considered in district elections to determine whether beer, wine or liquor may be consumed on or off the property where sold, or even sold in either townships or certain precincts in the larger urban areas.

Election Takes On National Aspect

By The Associated Press

Voters tomorrow will elect a Mississippi senator, a Kentucky governor, representatives for Ohio, Indiana and New York districts and mayors for several score cities, including Philadelphia, San Francisco, Cleveland and Detroit.

The off-year state and municipal elections are largely local in character and politicians foresee few "trends" that will stand as guideposts for 1948.

From a national viewpoint, the Kentucky gubernatorial race holds top interest because of Democratic efforts to unseat the present Republican administration. The candidates are U. S. Rep. Earl C. Clements, Democrat, and State Attorney General Eldon S. Dummit, Republican. Simeon S. Willis, the G.O.P. incumbent, is ineligible to succeed himself.

In Mississippi six candidates are vying for the senate seat of the late Theodore G. Bilbo. These include two U. S. representatives, William M. Colmer and John E. Rankin.

$1,500 FIRE DAMAGES HOUSE NORTH OF CITY

A loss of $1,500 was estimated by firemen after a fire this morning destroyed a rear porch, the kitchen, kitchen furnishings and a roof of the home of Mrs. Bernice Baker, route 4, north of the city.

Firemen from Central station received the call at 8:08 a. m. Mrs. Baker said that she had been upstairs asleep and, that she awoke when she heard something falling. Coming downstairs she smelled smoke and found that the rear porch door had burned off and fallen into the kitchen.

Engine companies 3 and 4 from central station answered her immediate call and the fire required an hour and 37 minutes to put out.

Firemen said the loss was partially covered by insurance.

REPORT PROGRESS IN CHURCH CENSUS

185 Workers Launch Canvass of City Homes.

Approximately 185 workers on the citywide religious census project of the Kiwanis club began taking of the census Sunday afternoon, and between 2 p. m. and 5:30 nearly 30 had reported their particular territories covered, Dr. G. C. Neutzel, head of the church committee of the club, reported. Each worker was given a list of 50 to 60 families to visit.

The census takers are members of the club or of various churches appointed for the work, and some are husband and wife teams from married people's classes of various Sunday schools. Each family visited by the census takers is listed together with church membership or church preference of the family or of members of the family in case more than one church is attended. This information, on census cards, is then turned over to a key worker, or to a committee of wives of Kiwanis members at the Y.M.C.A. for tabulation. The completed lists wil lthen be turned over to ministers of various churches at the close of the census.

TAX CUT ASKED WITH AID PLAN

Executive Declares Reduction Should Be Integral Part of Marshall Program.

By The United Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—Tax reduction should accompany any financial help the United States may decide to give Europe under the Marshall plan, Lewis H. Brown told the United Press today in an exclusive interview.

The chairman of Johns-Manville corporation, who recently published a detailed study on Germany he made for the U. S. Army, held that tax reduction could be made possible through reduction of wasteful government expenditures.

He opposed governmental rationing as "unnecessary and undesirable," although admitting that voluntary rationing "may not be enough to obtain sufficient food for Europe."

Could Do Buying Better

Pointing out that rising prices come when government enters the market in competition with the man in the street for the purchase of food and supplies, Brown held the government could do its buying more efficiently by entering the market "in such a fashion and at such times as to least disturb the stability of domestic prices."

He said the American people, through congress, may have to decide upon one or a combination of the following ways to help Europe:

1. Reduced costs of internal government in the United States.

2. "If this is not done then taxes would have to be reduced much less than would be possible if we eliminated some of the waste and duplication in government spending."

3. Make smaller reductions in the national debt than would be the case if we did not have to assist Europe.

4. "Or we can indulge in further undesirable deficit financing which adds fuel to the fires of growing inflation. The only way in which the financing can be done in a non-inflationary way is through taxes or the flotation of a loan sold entirely to investors to absorb part of their savings."

Cost Is 40 Billion

Speaking of reducing government costs, Brown said:

"The total cost of federal, state and local government in the United States is over $40,000,000,000. A vigorous reduction of government expenses internally might well provide a large portion of the means with which to meet the requirements for preserving western civilization.

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Ear Infection May Be Serious if Untreated.

IMPORTUNATELY, there is no way of telling how many people damage their health by neglect and failure to seek medical aid at the proper time. Their number is probably legion and among them must be counted the many victims of chronic otitis media.

Chronic otitis media simply means long-continued infection of the inner ear. Its two main symptoms are deafness and a discharge from the ear which persists over a long period of time. In the vast majority of cases, otitis media is a preventable disorder, and when it is present it usually indicates negligence, because every case of chronic middle ear infection starts as an acute infection, and, in this stage, is most easily treated.

A continuing discharge from the ear may indicate that the original infection was so severe that it persisted to the bone of the mastoid area, which is in back of the ear.

Another cause is the formation of scar tissue in the middle ear. Still a third cause is what is known as cholesteatoma, which consists of a mass of dead tissue cells in which crystals of a substance known as cholesterol are deposited. This mass may cause pressure on the surrounding tissues and contribute to the continuance of the infection in the ear.

In treating chronic otitis media, first of all, efforts must be made to get rid of the factors which may be contributing to the infection. This may require operative treatment in certain cases, such as removal of the adenoids.

After this is done, the next most important thing is to keep the ear clean. The discharge should be removed regularly and completely by washing the ear with a mildly antiseptic solution. Some physicians advise putting hydrogen peroxide into the ear to loosen up the secretions. The more discharge that is present, the more frequently will cleansing be required.

As the discharge dries up, it is also advisable that a powder be put into the ear such as boracic acid with iodine. It is not believed that the use of penicillin and sulfonamide products are of any particular value after the chronic stage has been reached though both may be very valuable during the earlier acute stage.

If the patient's hearing remains good, surgical treatment is not urgent. However, if the patient is rapidly losing his hearing, surgical treatment may be necessary at once. The type of surgical treatment to be employed will, of course, depend upon the extent of damage to the tissues.

If left untreated, chronic otitis media always tends to get worse and to cause many recurring discomforts in the way of headache, giddiness and a feeling of sickness at the stomach. While the hearing defect may be slight at first, it will become more and more marked if the disease remains unchecked.

In view of its serious consequence, there should be no need to emphasize the great importance of preventing it altogether by proper treatment of any acute infection right at the start.

Seek Ruling on Mayor Candidate at Bucyrus

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Nov. 3 — County election board officials today were awaiting word from the attorney general's office concerning what is to be done about counting votes for Bucyrus' independent write-in candidate for mayor.

A week ago T. H. Baker announced himself as an independent candidate against Mayor R. L. Hertzer, Democrat, and his Republican opponent, C. W. Warnock. Election board members have been attempting to determine if the candidacy is legal and how the name is to be placed on the ballot.

If either Hertzer's or Warnock's name, or both, are scratched out to provide a place for Baker the ballot might be considered defaced and the remainder of the ticket held in doubt, election board members fear.

A ruling has been asked of Attorney General Jenkins. His office announced Saturday that a ruling would not be possible before today. If it comes today board members will carry the decision to precinct workers in person election day before counting is begun.

Tomorrow Is YOUR Voting Day

DURING the last few weeks the Marion Junior Chamber of Commerce has been filling its customary pre-election role of urging all voters to go to the polls and cast their ballots on Tuesday, Nov. 4. This is a valuable service young men of the Junior Chamber perform, for it is almost unbelievable but true that many voters need prodding in order to get them to exercise this priceless privilege of American citizenship.

The Junior Chamber's pre-election slogan is, and always has been: "Vote as you please but—VOTE." This means that the Junior Chamber is not taking a partisan stand but is working to make elections a truly representative expression of all the people. That is accomplished only when a large percentage of the electorate goes to the polls. It is the only way that gives the greatest possible assurance of the best candidates being chosen for service and of the best possible decision on special issues appearing on the ballots. When only a small percentage of the electorate votes, the results are likely to be the choice of a minority of the total population, and unfortunately minorities frequently are acting in behalf of personal and selfish interests.

So it is highly important that the vote Tuesday be fully and truly that of the entire community. The Star joins heartily in the plea of the Junior Chamber of Commerce for a busy day at the city and county polling places tomorrow.

The Witheld Affidavits

DEADLINE for filing Taft-Hartley law non-communist affidavits has passed without such affidavits being submitted by the United Mine Workers and the CIO Steel Workers. Among those filing were the United Auto Workers and a large number of other unions.

Thus the unions headed by John L. Lewis and Phillip Murray have not qualified to file actions with the NLRB. Whether their decisions were motivated by pique or because of Communist infestation, their failure to act withholds the benefits of NLRB hearings from their union memberships.

If the affidavits were withheld because of dissatisfaction with the Taft-Hartley act, Murray and Lewis weren't acting in the best interests of their memberships. Union leaders just as strongly opposed to the act signed affidavits, and that will not prevent them from exerting every effort to change the law. If petulance dictated their decision, such an attitude doesn't become grown men, especially those charged with the responsibility of heading important unions.

Settling the Time Question

CLEVELAND will vote Tuesday on the troublesome question of daylight saving time, settling the matter for once and for all.

In many cities through the western section of the Eastern Time zone, the question of a time change comes up each spring and is hotly debated by special interest groups which set up such a racket it's impossible to tell where public sentiment lies. So the matter is laid aside for a year.

The Cleveland referendum will reveal an urban majority's wish. Other cities throughout the state are watching for the result with interest.

Wedding Gifts

IT'S a rare and grand assortment of wedding presents Princess Elizabeth is receiving. The worshipful company of glovers sent 30 pairs of gloves. From friends came 80 pairs of nylons. Aside from the art objects and precious stones presented by royalty, there are bathmats, silverware, sugar, clocks, chinaware, umbrellas, a pillow embroidered "Don't fence me in," assorted poetry and a pair of blue garters which a New York woman hopes the bride wears as the "something blue" of her ensemble.

Every young couple receives certain useless and hideous gifts which they consign to the attic where they hope they'll be lost. Among the princess' gifts there may be a few of these, no doubt, but the wealth of nations has been searched for appropriate gifts. After the wedding the presents are to be placed on public display, which should provide one of the best shows impoverished Britain has had in years.

Scale Model Customs Union

BENELUX, which sounds like a trade name, is a new word in the news from Europe. It is the name of a customs union consummated among Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxemburg. The union goes into effect Jan. 1 and its sponsors hope that eventually it will extend to excise taxes and currency.

It is good to know that somewhere in Europe there is voluntary international cooperation not involving puppet officials, threats or armed force. The principals of the union are tony nations, but in the past they have been prosperous, orderly and free of police state controls. If Benelux is successful it may serve as a model for more ambitious cooperation later on.

Another "Willkie" Not Likely

By Mark Sullivan

Writer Believes G.O.P. Will Not Repeat 1940.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3—Allowing for many things that may happen between now and the Republican national convention at Philadelphia next June, and assuming the convention were to take place next week, a rough and extremely tentative outline of its opening stage is possible.

This is the more interesting because of an extraordinary coincidence, unprecedented, I think, in the history of either party. The two men who by every expectation will be the leading candidates for the presidential nomination next year—Governor Dewey and Senator Taft—are the same who were the leading candidates eight years before. Hence in a sense the 1940 convention provides a pattern for the 1948 one.

But this coincidence does not prove anything. It by no means follows—indeed, it is rather unlikely—that the convention next year will take the course of the 1940 one. In that 1940 convention the two leaders both failed to reach a majority, and the convention turned to Wendell L. Willkie, a very dark horse indeed, who in the first ballot had had little strength, who indeed was comparatively little known to the convention or the party or the country.

Repetition of 1940 Seen

At present it is presumably suggested that next year Taft and Dewey may repeat—that both may fail to reach a majority, and that they may, in the political phrase "kill each other off" and that the convention will turn to another Willkie. Who would be the Willkie of 1948? A frequent suggestion is General Dwight Eisenhower. But he would not be a Willkie in the sense of being little known to the country, as Willkie was. Yet obviously there is in the superficial circumstances some foundation for the idea that Senator Taft and Governor Dewey might kill each other off and the convention turn to some one else.

A brief account of the 1940 convention has interest. On the first ballot Mr. Dewey led by far; he had 360 delegates out of a total of 1,000. Mr. Taft on the first ballot had only 129. So long a start by Mr. Dewey ought normally to have nominated him. But on the second ballot he lost strength, went down to 338. That drop was ominous, for in convention psychology and by precedent it is assumed that if a candidate fails to increase his strength in each ballot his chance is doomed. It turned out to be so. On the third ballot Mr. Dewey fell still farther, on the fourth farther yet and on the fifth to a figure that was defeat, only 57.

Quite different was the fortune of Mr. Taft. Starting with 129 on the first ballot, he rose in successive ballots to 203, to 212, to 254, to 377. Ordinarily that steady and cumulative progress ought to have ended in Mr. Taft getting the nomination.

But as Mr. Taft had grown, Mr. Willkie had grown even more. Starting with 105 on the first ballot, he grew to 171, to 259, to 306, to 429, and on the sixth ballot to 659 which was a majority.

Turning from 1940 to the coming convention in 1948, a very rough and extremely tentative picture of the early balloting is in the minds of some disinterested party leaders and observers; it is very much subject to change.

The first ballot may give a sign, though not a conclusive one. For on the first ballots of conventions it is the custom for many state delegations to vote for favorite sons, either as a gesture of courtesy and local pride or with the notion that in the shuffle of ensuing ballots the favorite son may become a real possibility. As an example, in the 1940 convention fourteen candidates were voted for on the first ballot.

Second Ballot Is Important

It is the second ballot that, in ordinary circumstances, is likely to give a sign. One guess is that Mr. Dewey and Mr. Taft will have roughly the same number of delegates, ranging 300 each. If it turns out that both show something like this strength in the early balloting, importance then attaches to two factors which in effect are one. Will it be Mr. Dewey's delegates or Mr. Taft's that have the greater staying power? If either falls behind on any ballot, that would be ominous. If either grows steadily ballot by ballot, that would be likely to point toward victory — though there have been exceptions to this rule, as in the case of Mr. Taft in 1940.

Among party leaders one hears frequently a prediction that next year the Republicans will not "do another Willkie." Many of next year's possibilities, such as Mr. Stassen, Mr. Vandenberg and others, are recognized party leaders. Turning to any recognized party leader would not be "doing another Willkie."

Among His Souvenirs....

Chicago police are searching for an embittered suitor who ran off with his sweetheart's teeth.

He couldn't steal her heart and so he took her bridgework.

She wasn't willing to live on love and so he's going to let her try it on soup.

If she whispers sweet nothings in anyone else's ear, it'll be with a lisp.

I've heard of people keeping momentoes of their love affairs, but never before an upper plate to remember an old flame by.

Still, when he is old and gray and nodding by the fire, reminiscing of her sparkling eyes and rose-petal complexion and lips of red and teeth like shining pearls, it'll be nice to be able to take the latter out and see if they are as white as he remembers them.

Diphtheria Still Prevalent

Cases Increase as Result of Wartime Letdown.

NEWS of United States hunters being quarantined in a diphtheria epidemic at Moosonee, Ont., remote settlement on the shores of James Bay, is further evidence that the dread disease isn't conquered.

The remarkable gains against diphtheria, especially large during the two decades up to 1940, have been virtually brought to a halt. If the downward trend of the disease prior to the present decade had continued, diphtheria by now would be a medical rarity. Instead, last year there were 16,423 cases about the same as in each of the years from 1940 to 1942. The figures for cases and deaths for 1945 were the highest since 1939.

Nearly 1,600 persons, mostly children, died from diphtheria in the United States in 1945 and the death toll last year was about 1,300. Ohio last year had 912 cases, compared with 774 in 1945 and 614 in 1940. Some states reported the number of their 1946 cases was six times greater than that for 1940.

To some degree, the increase in diphtheria is not surprising, because of the very large increase in the number of young children as a result of the high birth rate in the war and post-war years.

This, however, is insufficient to account for the large increase in the number of cases and deaths. In some instances, the disease may have been transmitted by soldiers returning from areas of Europe which had suffered severe epidemics of diphtheria during ing 1943 and 1944. Certain localized outbreaks in upstate New York were traced to this source.

In some areas, the number of cases and deaths at adolescent and early adult ages has been unusually large. But the chief reason for the recent recrudescence of diphtheria has been the failure in many places to keep up the prewar pace of the immunization program, and consequently the number of unprotected susceptibles has grown rapidly.

Assessment Values Rising

MORE than $3,000,000,000 in property valuations have been added to assessment rolls in 49 major U. S. population centers this year as a result of new construction and increased real estate values.

The National Association of Assessing Officers, completing a survey of 49 assessment jurisdictions of more than 100,000 population, reports Los Angeles county led the field with a 32.47 per cent increase during 1947.

Latest assessment figures in the 49 localities totaled 43.22 billion, compared to a previous total of 39.83 billion. The increases in 35 localities represent 1947 compared to 1946 assessments. In the remaining 14, 1946 assessments were compared to those of the previous year.

Significant is the fact that every one of the 49 cities and counties surveyed reported some assessment increase, with an average rise for the group of 8.51 per cent. Smallest percentage increase reported was in Reading, Pa., which had 0.20 per cent.

Biggest dollarwise increase was New York City's 1.03 billion assessment rise—a 6.47 per cent increase. New York's assessments now total more than 16.9 billion. Los Angeles scored a dollar assessment increase of 798 million. In Cuyahoga County (Cleveland), 168 million was added.

Generally increased property values caused the bulk of assessment increases in Buffalo, Flint, Syracuse, and Worcester, Mass.

Marshall Plan Report Near

By Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3—Secretary of Commerce Averell Harriman's "Committee of Nineteen" is edging up to its deadline. The committee's report on aid to Europe will be published within the next few days. Obviously, the report will have an important impact on American foreign policy. With its publication, the Marshall plan will become, for the first time, in fact a plan. And the report will be the real starting point of the great debate on both interim aid to western Europe and the Marshall plan as a whole.

Even as the deadline approaches, certain issues remain unresolved within the committee. Even so, advance reports are sufficient to indicate that the committee is about to give birth to a pretty remarkable document. It will include specific recommendations for the American part in the great task of European rehabilitation. And it will be free of the meaningless gobbledegook which usually afflicts the combined effort of a large number of men of widely differing views.

Somewhat Different

For, although last-minute changes are always possible, it seems likely that the report, or at least the heart of it, will actually be designed to be read, a most unusual quality in any government report. According to present plans, the main body of the report, which will include the detailed analyses of the various subcommittees, together with the statistics and the appendices which will interest only the specialists, will be preceded by a short, pithy and readable introduction.

This introduction will summarize the conclusions and recommendations of the committee, and the chances are that it will be a great deal more outspoken than is usual in such cases. For it is expected to spell out, so that he who runs may read, the real political interest of the United States in an economically healthy Europe. The economic and humanitarian aspects of aid to Europe will not be disregarded but the overriding American interest in a politically independent western Europe will also be frankly underscored, let the Kremlin and the Cominform howl though they may.

Vital Agreements Reached

Although no final decision has been taken, the committee is also pretty unanimously agreed on the form American participation in the Marshall plan should take. The majority of the committee members agrees that the American end cannot be run by any existing department or government agency. The horrible interdepartmental committee system which has led to such fatal results in the past has also been discarded. Instead, the committee is expected to recommend the creation of a separate and distinct agency, somewhat on the lines of the war production board, headed by an executive appointed by the President, and with very wide authority.

The knottiest question which confronts the committee is what the relationship should be between this agency and the foreign governments participating in the Marshall plan. This is certain to be an explosive issue when the congressional debate begins. Presidential candidate Harold Stassen has demanded in effect a "moratorium on Socialism" as a quid pro quo for American aid to Europe, and this idea has found support in influential conservative quarters. Thus it is interesting, the more so since the Harriman committee includes a number of politically conservative business men, that the committee has almost unanimously discarded the Stassen idea.

Against Political Tieup

The committee members, after a two-month look at the facts, have come to the conclusion that to attach such political conditions to the Marshall plan would be to sink it without trace. No self-respecting government as even the most Tory of the British Tories have warned, could possibly so compromise its independence of political action.

On the other hand, the committee is also agreed that the American agency administering the plan cannot confine its activities to "shoveling out the dollars and hoping for the best." Otherwise, it is argued, what was meant to be permanent rehabilitation might become no more than temporary relief. Production is the key to the long-term economic—and thus political—health of Europe. Moreover, the Paris committee of 16 nations has made certain commitments, both to increase production and to work together for a more rational and productive European economy.

The manner in which these commitments are kept, many of the Harriman committee members are reported to have concluded, is none of this country's business. Yet it is this country's business to see that they are kept. Thus it should be the duty of the American agency to make certain that American dollars be used exclusively to keep production figures in Europe moving up. "They can nationalize till they're blue in the face," as one committee member summed it up, "as long as they produce the goods."

Just how the American agency could exercise its power to this end is not yet clear. Even so, these advance reports are sufficient to indicate that the members of the Harriman committee have done a remarkable job. They have produced, at least, a sound basis for intelligent debate in congress. It remains to be seen what use congress will make of the opportunity.

Enter the Electronic Brain

Now it's the electric brain. A high-speed super-computing machine has been developed that will solve a problem in ten minutes that would take Prof. Einstein three years, working night and day.

The United States Bureau of Standards announces the "machine with a built-in intelligence." It also has an electronic memory, which threatens even John Kieran's.

We are in for push-button thinking and switch control intelligence. The streamlined, eight-speed, twenty-four cylinder, high compression brain with floating power may be said to have arrived.

A man with a problem just steps on a starter and—presto—the answer pops out like gum from a slot machine.

Instead of concentration and study, all that is required is a change of oil now and then and a few spare parts.

Deep thinking becomes a factory problem, a matter of gear shifts and battery voltage. It makes possible the goal man seems to have been after for the last 15 years: 100 per cent result with no use of the individual brain whatever.

* * *

Everywhere of late we have seen the evidence on all levels of life that heavy thinking, concentration on a serious problem and the use of the head except for purposes of photography were considered un-American and old hat.

* * *

The human brain has become widely regarded as unnecessary except for the purpose of following the movies, keeping track of scandals, forming opinions on crooners and answering "Napoleon" to quiz program question such as "Who invented the tea bag?"

"He doesn't know much" hasn't been taken as a reflection on anybody in years.

* * *

Thousands of people who can't tell you what war Ulysses Grant was in or what large ocean washes the Atlantic seaboard are winning prizes nightly for finally stuttering "Was it Columbus?" to the question of "Who invented the cotton gin? No prompting, please."

* * *

The electric brain may make things much worse. How are young people going to realize the importance of going to school if everything they learn can be extracted from a piece of machinery?

* * *

And that electronic memory! Can you imagine the neighbors and old friends having one of those around?

The Melancholy Days

By Truman Twill

Now come the melancholy days, the saddest of the year, because it's going to be nip and tuck, between the old man's income and the cost of heating the old nest, which will be systematically battered to pieces by high winds, ice and erosion.

Now comes the season when sleet storms will cut a pedestrian's face to ribbons and drive pellets of ice down his collar, bringing on violent chills, hacking coughs and an attack of whatever kind of pneumonia it is that cannot be stopped in its tracks by any of the new drugs.

There will be, eventually, one of those snowstorms that pile up snow belt-high on a seven-foot Indian, with householders dropping over dead from overexertion on the business end of snow shovels and zillions of motorists stuck in out-of-the-way places, cursing and spinning the wheels.

Shoes will be sodden and clammy with dampness, overshoes will be left behind in all manner of places, there will be drafts whistling down open staircases, sidewalks will be glassy with ice, and huge icicles will drop on the heads of passersby who will retain sharp lawyers and sue for everything that's in it.

The air will be full of soot, nasal passages will close up so painfully they must be forced open with compressed air, gummy sediment will collect in the lungs and long ere spring nine out of ten victims of a tough winter will be wheezing like a pair of leaky bellows.

Knees will be twisted beyond repair in accidents involving awkward louts playing with skis, elderly patriots will break their hips on icy steps, snow slides will go rumbling off roofs carrying most of the roof with them, and there will be an influenza epidemic, with millions of hapless souls stretched out languidly in bed of pain.

Windows will gradually become opaque from winter's dirt and smear, and in many cases will be unwashed until the advent of warm weather, there will be mud ankle deep wherever no paved surfaces and provided—and if the mud freezes there will be bursted pipes and plumber bills.

And in the midst of all this will occur the merry, merry Yule, with everybody rushing about like crazy to buy stuff they hope will be expensive enough to make an impression but not so expensive it will make a depression, and soon thereafter will come the January bills, the long bleak days and nights of February, the endless rains of March, the dreary suspense of waiting for spring to come in April and finally, at long last, May Day—when all the homegrown rats will crawl out of the woodwork in New York City and say "Boo" thereby ushering in another summer.

Happy winter, one and all.

Students at Vernon Heights Junior High school wound up a week of political activity Friday by selecting their school officers. Those elected are: president, Howard Ballinger; vice president, Lee Henninger; secretary, Carolyn Klutey; and treasurer, Dave Hunt.

The election followed a rally which climaxed a week of "political" activities. This project, conducted by the eighth grade history sections, had as its primary purpose the teaching of good citizenship by having the pupils actually participate in an election patterned after the county system of elections.

On Monday, petitions were circulated by the campaign managers. To place a candidate's name on the ballot required the signatures of 10 per cent of the potential voters. Pre-election activities consisted of bulletin board displays, tags, cards, and posters, each urging support for a particular candidate.

Wednesday the pupils went to the polls and participated in the primary elections which automatically reduced the number of candidates to two for each office.

In the election assembly held Friday morning, each campaign manager was introduced, and he, in turn, introduced his candidate. Some candidates, in addition to their own speeches, used various devices for bringing their names to the attention of the student body. Among these was the use of a soap-box derby racer, a doll-baby quartet, a band, and a specially organized cheering section.

It is believed that a new television development will permit observers to see inside oil wells and steel furnaces.

Two Ohio Shotgun Deaths Investigated

By The Associated Press

WILMINGTON, O., Nov. 3—Authorities today continued an investigation of the weekend deaths of two men from shotgun blasts, seeking to determine, Clinton County Sheriff Howard C. Botts said, if there were any connections between the shootings, which occurred two miles apart.

The men were identified by Botts as Arthur Newman, 51, a farm laborer, and William N. Stethem, 54-year-old operator of ros repair equipment for Union township, farm section northwest of here.

Newman's body, shot below the heart, was found yesterday morning in his shack near a shattered window which indicated there had been a shotgun duel, the sheriff said, approximately 12 hours after Stethem's body, virtually decapitated, was found in a farm barnyard. Shotguns containing empty shells were lying near both bodies, he added.

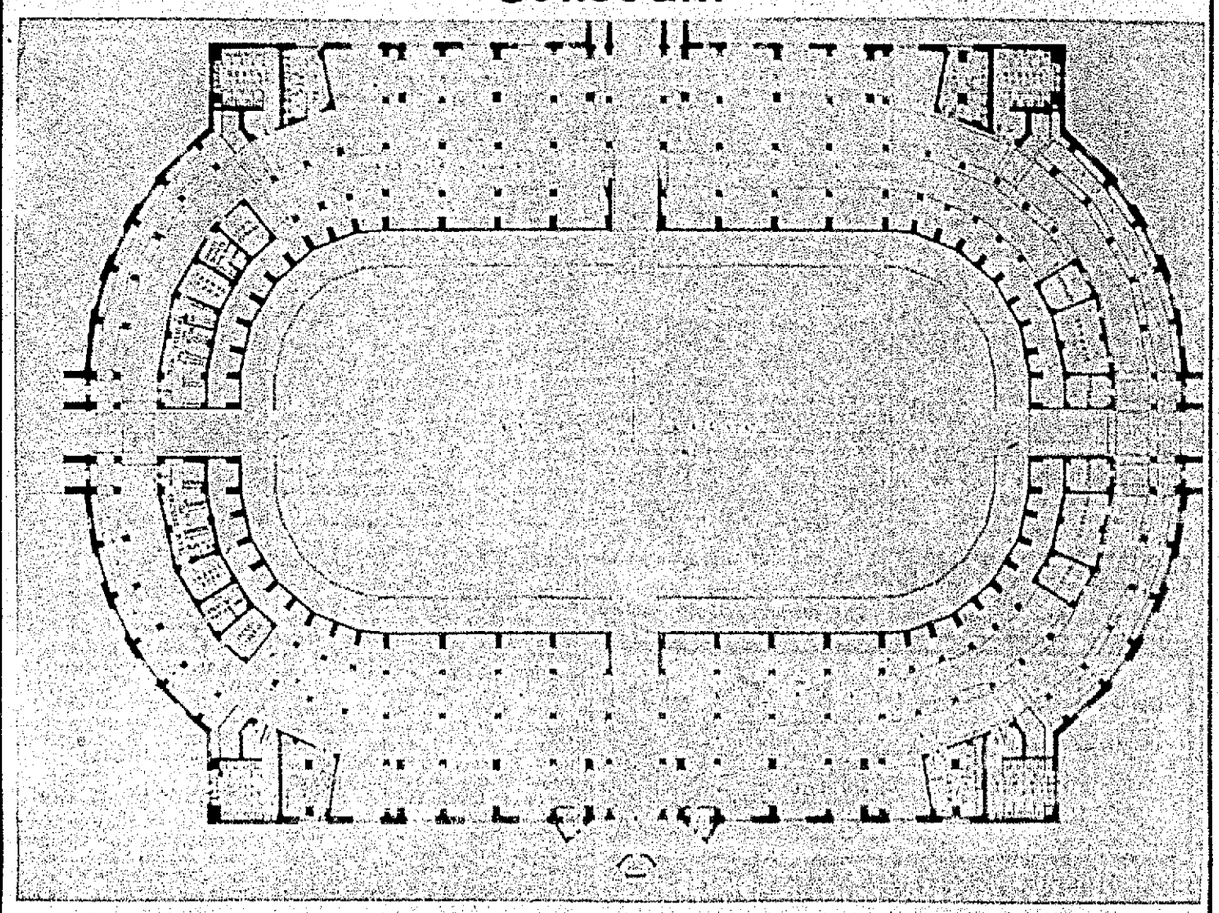
Marion County Veterans Memorial Coliseum



THE ARCHITECT DESIGN OF THE INTERIOR OF THE MARION COUNTY VETERANS MEMORIAL COLISEUM WITH A SEATING CAPACITY OF APPROXIMATELY 6,000.

DO NOT READ THIS—unless you are interested in making Marion County the leader in the State, with a Coliseum second to none, which will offer the finest facilities for all types of activities from sports to religion. This sports center and exhibition hall will be open to all Civic, Educational, Religious, Agricultural and other organizations including Veterans and Industrial groups and Granges. In addition it will afford a stage and arena for musicals, ice shows, rodeos, all types of athletic and sports events, symphonies and even grand opera.

Whether you are interested in a high school basketball game or a flower show, a track meet or a religious forum, a Grange Convention or a Hockey game, a machinery exhibit or a style show, the Veterans Memorial will adequately and comfortably handle them all. It will serve the entire County of Marion, and its central location in the County will bring many events, which now are to be found only in the larger metropolitan areas of the state, within easy reach of us. Other uses for this Coliseum include dancing, boxing, wrestling, tennis, Boy Scout Jamborees, Livestock exhibitions and Junior Fair Activities. It's full possibilities are almost endless.

PROPOSED TAX LEVY

MARION COUNTY, OHIO

An agricultural tax for the benefit of Marion County and Marion County Agricultural Society for the PURPOSE OF ERECTING A COLISEUM AND EXHIBIT BUILDING AS A WAR MEMORIAL UPON THE MARION COUNTY FAIRGROUNDS, MARION COUNTY, OHIO, at a rate not exceeding one (.001) mill for each one dollar of valuation, which amounts to ten ($.10) cents for each one hundred dollars of valuation, for a period of five (5) years, and shall be levied annually on all taxable property in Marion County, Ohio, outside the ten (10) mill limitation for payment of said building.

X	For Agricultural Tax Levy
	Against Agricultural Tax Levy

As a recreation and sports center it will materially reduce the need for other projected recreation facilities in the County as well as the city of Marion. The cost to the taxpayer will be negligible — only 10c on each hundred dollars of taxable valuation each year for five years. What more beneficial and satisfying investment can we make for our children, our veterans, and ourselves?

Henry Blair, juvenile radio star and Hollywood actor, plays the part of Davy Martin, a warm-hearted imaginative schoolboy in this week's dramatization of the Red Cross series, "In Your Name," to be heard at 10:15 tonight over WMRN.

When teacher asked for articles to be shipped overseas in Junior Red Cross gift boxes, Davy Martin slipped something extra special into the cartons. What Davy put into those boxes caused a little bewilderment among some Dutch school kids and put Davy in bad with his own teacher—but only for a moment. The "In Your Name" series is a weekly presentation of Marion County Chapter of the American Red Cross and is heard each week over radio station WMRN. Well-known stars of the stage, screen, and radio are featured on these programs.

In many countries, as a result of the war, the people are without adequate shelter and without adequate nourishment, and become easy prey to aggressive ideologies which offer them the illusion of escape from the hard realities of their daily existence. If we want these people to value freedom and respect law, we must give them at least the chance to feed, clothe and shelter themselves and their families, and give them the necessary means to keep internal order. We must give them the feeling that they can have an independent life without becoming satellites of Russia, the United States or any other power.

Free Essential

In extending economic aid, we must not seek to control the people of a country, but rather we must seek to make them free. We must have confidence that if we give people the opportunity to be free, they will not wish to be dependent upon us or upon any other power, we must make sure that our economic aid is not turned against us.

We must make it unmistakably plain that we are not competing with the Soviet Union for the control of other states. Rather, we should stress that we would welcome a real and bona fide willingness on the part of the Soviet Union to collaborate in rebuilding and protecting political and economic independence.

I would not be speaking frankly, however, if I did not repeat that thus far our efforts to collaborate with the Soviet Union have met with little or no success. My efforts in this direction are told in the preceding chapters. And today we have before us Mr. Molotov's rejection of the plans advanced by Mr. Bevin and Mr. Bidault in response to the proposal made by Secretary Marshall on June 5. In his speech at Harvard University, Secretary Marshall called upon European nations to agree on "the requirements of the situation and the part those countries themselves will take in order to give proper effect to whatever action might be undertaken by this Government."

Secretary Marshall did not say the United States would furnish any specified amount to aid the program agreed upon. He said simply that we would support "such a program as far as it may be practical for us to do so." But other officials of the government have made statements which are quoted abroad, estimating that such a program would cost us from five to six billion dollars a year for four or five years. These estimates were made even before the European governments met, indicating that our officials have some idea of what the over-all program should be. Certainly the estimates have whetted the appetites of many European officials.

Should Exercise Caution

I welcome the initiative of Mr. Bevin and Mr. Bidault, but political realities demand that in welcoming this program to advance Europe's economic recovery, we should also express some words of caution. It should be made clear that the United States will determine, in the light of its resources, the amount of aid to be extended, where the money will be spent, and what conditions, if any, will be attached to its expenditure.

Some European governments and peoples do not understand that a member of the executive branch of our government cannot make a financial commitment until congress actually appropriates the funds. We should make sure they do not proceed in the belief that any program agreed to by them will automatically be paid for by us. Unless this is done, a subsequent refusal by congress to provide money for the agreed program will cause misunderstandings and disappointments which will dangerously affect our relations with European states.

In considering what the Congress may do, we must not overlook what has been done recently. We did not try to extend the life of UNRRA because it was decided that instead of other governments allocating funds appropriated by us for relief, the United States should make the allocation. When the congress authorized 350 million dollars for relief it did not leave it to the executive department to determine where it should be spent. It specified that 335 million dollars would be available only in Austria, Greece, Hungary, Italy, Poland, Trieste and China, and only 15 million dollars should be available for relief in other states. It also provided for supervision and control of expenditures in every country by missions of American citizens.

U. S. Supervision Provided

And, again, the recent legislation authorizing 400 million dollars for military and economic aid to Greece and Turkey, which was passed by congress and approved by the President, provides that the money should be spent under the supervision of an American committee, the chairman of which must be approved by the Senate.

Mr. Molotov's action in late June in refusing to attend the Paris economic conference unless he could first know the terms and conditions under which the United States would furnish financial aid, and could receive certain assurances that the sovereignty of states would not be interfered with, was disappointing to all who favor world cooperation. However, I do not agree with some officials and editors who think this refusal is conclusive proof that the Soviets want chaotic conditions to continue in Europe.

Judging by the Soviets' refusal to cooperate in other matters, it is entirely possible that they may not object to a continuance of unrest in Europe. Nevertheless, Mr. Molotov's action in this matter is open to a different interpretation. The invitation of Britain and France placed him in an embarrassing position. The satellite states, like all people in financial distress, must have welcomed the invitation to inform the United States of the financial assistance they needed, particularly when the news reports indicated that the assistance would be a gift instead of a loan. If the Soviets now bring pressure on them not to accept financial help from the United States, the Soviets themselves will have to help the satellites economically, and consequently they will retard their own reconstruction projects.

Possible Molotov Fears

I think that Mr. Molotov's refusal to participate is influenced by the same fear that has made him refuse to cooperate in our atomic energy proposal and many other proposals—the fear that they would be forced to agree to inspection by representatives of other governments who could demand the right to freely travel in the Soviet Union.

Mr. Molotov has consistently objected to every proposal that involves inspection by representatives of other powers in areas under Soviet control.

On this July 1 my opinion is that Mr. Molotov, by refusing to cooperate, has, without intending to, settled a difficult problem for the United States government. Had the Soviet and its satellites attended the Paris conference, it is fair to assume that Britain and France, who are certain to recommend financial assistance for themselves, would also have recommended that we advance large sums for reconstruction in the Soviet Union and in its satellites. That would have posed for our congress a question as embarrassing to it as the invitation of Britain and France was to Molotov. The proposal to help all needy European countries was, I assume, submitted to the leaders of both political parties before it was made. But even so, we can only speculate about the action of the congress under those circumstances.

If congress required the same supervision of expenditures that is required in the cases of Turkey and Greece and the relief appropriations, the Soviets and the satellites would have refused to accept the assistance. They would have declared that they should have been informed of those conditions when the offer of assistance was made. On the other hand, if congress was asked to make a large appropriation for the Soviet Union and its satellite states without any supervision, the chances are that congress would not make the appropriation. By refusing to attend the Paris conference, Mr. Molotov has saved the congress this difficult decision. He has assumed the burden of dividing Europe into two economic and political spheres.

Fellow Citizens:

I have been privileged to hold the office of Mayor of our City for almost four years. These have been trying years to say the least, during which we assumed the responsibility of routine administration, developed post-war plans for needed improvements in our city, caused part of the extensive sewer plan to be constructed, developed the plans for Marion's new Airport and endeavored to the best of our ability to cope with the local problems of coal shortages, food conservation, lack of adequate housing, crossing elimination, aiding in obtaining new industry for Marion, assisted in the settlement of some labor-management problems and many others.

We, in the present administration have endeavored to improve the services of the city to its citizens. We have made definite improvements in the Hospital, Parks, Recreation Dept., Police and Fire Departments, Health Dept., Garbage Collection and in the maintenance of streets and sidewalks. At the same time, although paying the highest salary schedule in the history of Marion to its employees, we have been able to confine the cost of local government to the money available to us from taxation sources.

I appreciate fully the responsibilities of the office of Mayor and have endeavored to the best of my ability to fulfill the duties of this office, and to the best of my ability, make the City of Marion, Ohio, a better place in which to live and work. I promise if re-elected, that I will continue my efforts for a better Marion.

Respectfully,

HARRY L. DOWLER,
Mayor

ISUE CONSERVATION?

Just when and where ...are meat producing animals and ...members of the feathered tribe ...known to flourish or exist ...some and wishful thinking ...?

...If unorganized poultry were ...to be able to read and talk they ...might be able to diminish some of ...the colossal density, Mr. Luck-... Then again, in nowise tam-per with or in any manner obstruct our brother distiller in all his pernicious endeavors to consume grain. For it is a well-known fact that he at present has only a small limited supply sufficient for the next four years' duration. (What a pity). Without let or hindrance let him proceed apace. In nowise curtail not his operations, for to do so undoubtedly it would prostrate our national economy and wreak havoc to our domestic and national tax structure.

Yea, conservation of the necessities of life, where art thou? Yea, what a contradictory political enigma indeed is all this. When all the while all that is needed is fewer less confusing, confounding and crackpot ideologies and more practical advocates and applicators of good old-fashioned and time-tried horse sense.

What a travesty on the intelligence of the average human being and tax-paying citizen in general. When all the while any true son of the soil realizes and does know that in all categories there exists today great shortages of the necessities of life.

Truly, we do know and did endeavor to produce two blades of grass where only one grew before, but we succeeded not. For Mother Nature in all her infinite wisdom saw proper to cooperate not. This being the true status of present-day affairs, just where is there any mere political Moses, be he true or false, that will be able to lead us from this howling economic wilderness of doubt, fear and uncertainty?

Truly it will take more than the past or present-day political chicanery and window dressing to accomplish this Herculean task. Truly, our national strength and shoulders are broad but not nearly broad and strong enough for the task in hand.

In closing, kind readers, permit me to inject this one humble prediction. He are all on the verge of a national belt-tightening program familiarly known and thoroughly despised by all as Compulsory Rationing.

Wanna bet? I Thank You.

Body of Prematurely Born Child Found

The body of a prematurely born infant boy was found in the Little Scioto river northwest of Marion Sunday afternoon by a Marion man and two youths who were target shooting along the river.

The body was found shortly after 3 p. m. by Yuba Baker, 47, of 547 North Prospect street, his son Richard Baker, 13, and Maurice Mettler, 14, a neighbor of the Bakers.

One of the boys walking along the bank of the river at the bridge on the Hillman-Ford road discovered the body lying in the stream which at that point is less than a foot deep.

Following discovery the group started up the road to get to a telephone to notify authorities. They hailed a passing state highway patrol cruiser which in turn notified Marion patrol headquarters. The sheriff's office was notified as was Coroner E. H. Morgan.

Dr. Morgan estimated the body to be about in the fifth month of development and to have been in the water but a few hours. It was taken to the Boyd-Uncapher funeral home.

DRAMATIC ARTIST ON CONCERT SERIES

Number in Fall Entertainment Season Here Tuesday.

A program of pantomime, motion drama, and dramatic dance, a form of art which is comparatively new to many audiences, will be presented at Edison Junior High school auditorium Tuesday night. The presentation will be third in a concert series brought to Marion for the fall entertainment season by the Business and Professional Women's club. Financial profit from the concerts have been designated by the club for a benefit project for City hospital and the Jackie Krumholtz Leukemia Research Foundation.

Miss Marmein will present here her program of original compositions in her particular field of art, for which she has designed her own elaborate costumes.

Marionites who had the opportunity of seeing Miss Marmein in a program at Lakeside this summer are high in their praise of her dramatic ability. Her repertoire here will include numbers which will show a wide variety of ideas, from delicate satire and comedy to dramatic tragedy and mystic introspection. It is said that she changes with ease from clown to glamor girl, to the conscience-ridden Judas.

The curtain will go up at 8 p. m. Members of the Business and Professional Women's club will be ushers and will have charge of selling of single admission tickets at the door, under direction of Miss Martha Fabian, ticket sales chairman.

"GET OUT THE VOTE" DRIVE ENDS TONIGHT

The Junior Chamber of Commerce will wind up its "Get Out the Vote" campaign tonight with a half-hour broadcast over WMRN starting at 9 p. m.

At 7:30 p. m. the Jaycee committee plans to send out a sound truck with committeemen Robert Burton and Robert Axe urging Marion citizens to vote tomorrow.

John Millard Diehl, committee chairman, said that people participating in tonight's broadcast and all committeemen should be at the radio studio by 8:30 p. m.

Drilling for Gas at top Speed

but still not enough!

Our program of drilling new gas wells in Ohio is going ahead as fast as materials and manpower permit. More independent drillers, too, have moved into our territory to help supply the ever-increasing demands for gas.

This, and other steps we are taking, promise more gas than ever before. The amounts for delivery still will fall short of demands in extremely cold weather. Your conservative use of gas now will make more available this winter when you want it most

But every cloud has its silver lining. Our partially completed construction program is now bringing more gas from the Southwest than at any previous time.

As quickly as more compressors and pipe become available, and providing the weather permits further construction, additional amounts will be piped to your community.

LABOR PARTY LOSSES STIR BRITISH LEADERS

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 3 — Britain's major party leaders rallied their forces for a new period of intense political activity today as they took stock of returns from Saturday's municipal elections, which observers of all leanings agreed had resulted in a setback for the ruling Labor party.

Complete returns from the 388 English and Welsh boroughs voting showed the conservatives made a net gain of 621 seats and labor sustained a net loss of 652.

Labor party leaders frankly admitted the outcome was "disappointing," and conservatives acclaimed the result as a sharp swing to the right which showed the handwriting on the wall.

Even the staunchest conservative organs, however, refrained today from backing editorially the demands of Winston Churchill and Conservative party Chairman Lord Woolton for a national election to throw the labor government out.

The wartime prime minister last night proclaimed that "the result deprives the Socialist (Labor) government of any mandate they obtained at the general elections, in 1945.

"Henceforward," he declared, "they will govern without the moral support and against the will of the people."

Lord Woolton said that the elections showed that "the voters of the country have no confidence in the government."

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O., Nov. 3—Rev. John G. Gensel of St. Paul's Lutheran church today reported Sunday services were disrupted by a man who walked in during the singing of a hymn, advanced to the altar, gave a "Nazi salute," and disappeared.

Rev. Carveth Mitchell of the First Lutheran church said the man also appeared in his church yesterday and gave a similar performance before services opened.

The American farm income in 1946 was 28.4 billion dollars.

VETS GET DIPLOMAS THROUGH VA TESTS

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3—The veterans administration said today that many of the 2,000,000 veterans whose high school education was interrupted by the war may obtain high school diplomas by taking government tests.

The VA said that veterans testing service agencies are being set up in or near every community with a VA regional office or guidance center. The agencies are organized by state departments of education in cooperation with the American Council on Education.

The tests for the high school diplomas are not based strictly on academic knowledge. The tests—U. S. armed forces institute general educational development tests—are popularly known as G.E.D. tests. They measure a veteran's general education development resulting from experience and educational opportunities in the armed forces.

The tests also consider the veteran's development through informal or self-educational experiences. The emphasis, VA said, is on general information rather than specific facts.

The VA said that more than 500,000 veterans whose high school education was interrupted by the war have received high school diplomas or equivalency certificates as a result of the G.E.D. tests.

SPEED LIMIT UNSAFE

By International News Service

LONDON—To provide a greater margin of safety for people and goods during transportation by rail, the whole of Britain's railway system may soon have to revert to a 60 mph maximum speed limit which was imposed during World War II. Over a year ago the war restriction on speeding was lifted from 60 mph and was raised to 75 mph. It has since been discovered that such a speed has become incompatible with safety.

BOY CONFESSES

other boy, a second grade student, rode out to Thatcher woods on a street car Oct. 18, the day of the killing. The older boys lit cigarets. But Lang refused to give Lonnie one.

Lonnie threatened to tell Howard's mother, Mrs. Elma Lang, 42, about Howard's theft of $10, from her. The 12-year-old in a fit of temper whipped out a four-bladed pocket knife and stabbed Lonnie twice in the chest, then cut his throat. Howard forced the other boy to hold Lonnie's feet while the older boy dropped a 25-pound concrete slab on his victim's head.

The nine-year-old was compelled to assist in the slaying by Howard's threat, "I'll give it to you, too."

The 17-year-old girl, who is being held by authorities for investigation, visited the Lang home next day, and Howard showed her his bloody clothes and asked her to dispose of them. She wrapped the garments, a shirt and a pair of trousers, in an overcoat and threw them away while riding horseback about 2½ miles from Lonnies body.

Brodie said forest rangers found the blood-stained clothes in underbrush beside a bridle path today.

Meanwhile, Howard's mother sobbed in her neat three-room apartment on the West Side that the tow-headed youngster "had become a smart alec in the last two years."

Mrs. Lang said she had been deserted by her husband when her son was seven months old and that she had worked as a domestic to raise him.

"He wasn't brought up, he was dragged up," she said. "But he was a good boy until he started showing off."

DROP IN OWNERSHIP OF AUTOS FORECAST

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3—M. J. Brunnier, president of the American Automobile Association, said today millions of drivers may be forced from the highways by rapidly-mounting costs of car ownership and operation.

Opening the 45th annual meeting of the AAA, Brunier told 500 United States and Canadian motor club delegates that rising prices also seriously threaten future development of automotive transportation.

"With his pocketbook depleted by prices and taxes he must pay as an individual," Brunnier said, the motorist finds that practically every element entering into car ownership and operation — with the notable exception of tires—is far above pre-war levels. The costs of parking, of insurance, of motor fuel, of repairs, and other essential items have risen substantially and in some cases almost fantastically."

Brunnier said that despite this situation there was increased pressure for higher motor vehicle taxes. He said that other sources for supporting costs of roads and streets were evading their responsibility and attempting to shift the entire burden on to motorists.

LABOR PARTY LOSSES STIR BRITISH LEADERS

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 3 — Britain's major party leaders rallied their forces for a new period of intense political activity today as they took stock of returns from Saturday's municipal elections, which observers of all leanings agreed had resulted in a setback for the ruling Labor party.

Complete returns from the 388 English and Welsh boroughs voting showed the conservatives made a net gain of 621 seats and labor sustained a net loss of 652.

Labor party leaders frankly admitted the outcome was "disappointing," and conservatives acclaimed the result as a sharp swing to the right which showed the handwriting on the wall.

Even the staunchest conservative organs, however, refrained today from backing editorially the demands of Winston Churchill and Conservative party Chairman Lord Woolton for a national election to throw the labor government out.

The wartime prime minister last night proclaimed that "the result deprives the Socialist (Labor) government of any mandate they obtained at the general elections," in 1945.

"Henceforward," he declared, "they will govern without the moral support and against the will of the people."

Lord Woolton said that the elections showed that "the voters of the country have no confidence in the government."

"NAZI SALUTE" INVADER IN MANSFIELD CHURCHES

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O., Nov. 3—Rev. John G. Gensel of St. Paul's Lutheran church today reported Sunday services were disrupted by a man who walked in during the singing of a hymn, advanced to the altar, gave a "Nazi salute," and disappeared.

Rev. Carveth Mitchell of the First Lutheran church said the man also appeared in his church yesterday and gave a similar performance before services opened.

The American farm income in 1946 was 28.4 billion dollars.

VETS GET DIPLOMAS THROUGH VA TESTS

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3—The veterans administration said today that many of the 2,000,000 veterans whose high school education was interrupted by the war may obtain high school diplomas by taking government tests.

The VA said that veterans testing service agencies are being set up in or near every community with a VA regional office or guidance center. The agencies are organized by state departments of education in cooperation with the American Council on Education.

The tests for the high school diplomas are not based strictly on academic knowledge. The tests—U. S. armed forces institute general educational development tests—are popularly known as G.E.D. tests. They measure a veteran's general education development resulting from experience and educational opportunities in the armed forces.

The tests also consider the veteran's development through informal or self-educational experiences. The emphasis, VA said, is on general information rather than specific facts.

The VA said that more than 500,000 veterans whose high school education was interrupted by the war have received high school diplomas or equivalency certificates as a result of the G.E.D. tests.

SPEED LIMIT UNSAFE

By International News Service

LONDON—To provide a greater margin of safety for people and goods during transportation by rail, the whole of Britain's railway system may soon have to revert to a 60 mph maximum speed limit which was imposed during World War II. Over a year ago the war restriction on speeding was lifted from 60 mph and was raised to 75 mph. It has since been discovered that such a speed has become incompatible with safety.

BOY CONFESSES

other boy, a second grade student, rode out to Thatcher woods on a street car Oct. 18, the day of the killing. The older boys lit cigarets. But Lang refused to give Lonnie one.

Lonnie threatened to tell Howard's mother, Mrs. Elma Lang, 42, about Howard's theft of $10, from her. The 12-year-old in a fit of temper whipped out a four-bladed pocket knife and stabbed Lonnie twice in the chest, then cut his throat. Howard forced the other boy to hold Lonnie's feet while the older boy dropped a 25-pound concrete slab on his victim's head.

The nine-year-old was compelled to assist in the slaying by Howard's threat, "I'll give it to you too."

The 17-year-old girl, who is being held by authorities for investigation, visited the Lang home next day, and Howard showed her his bloody clothes and asked her to dispose of them. She wrapped the garments, a shirt and a pair of trousers, in an overcoat and threw them away while riding horseback about 2½ miles from Lonnies body.

Brodie said forest rangers found the blood-stained clothes in underbrush beside a bridle path today.

Meanwhile, Howard's mother sobbed in her neat three-room apartment on the West Side that the tow-headed youngster "had become a smart alec in the last two years."

Mrs. Lang said she had been deserted by her husband when her son was seven months old and that she had worked as a domestic to raise him.

"He wasn't brought up, he was dragged up," she said. "But he was a good boy until he started showing off."

DROP IN OWNERSHIP OF AUTOS FORECAST

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3—M. J. Brunnier, president of the American Automobile Association, said today millions of drivers may be forced from the highways by rapidly-mounting costs of car ownership and operation.

Opening the 45th annual meeting of the AAA, Brunier told 500 United States and Canadian motor club delegates that rising prices also seriously threaten future development of automotive transportation.

"With his pocketbook depleted by prices and taxes he must pay as an individual," Brunnier said, the motorist finds that practically every element entering into car ownership and operation — with the notable exception of tires—is far above pre-war levels. The costs of parking, of insurance, of motor fuel, of repairs and other essential items have risen substantially and in some cases almost fantastically."

Brunnier said that despite this situation there was increased pressure for higher motor vehicle taxes. He said that other sources for supporting costs of roads and streets were evading their responsibility and attempting to shift the entire burden on to motorists.

IT TOOK HIM 7 YEARS BUT HE GOT HIS FISH

NEHALEM, Ore.—Charles L Judd, 79, finally caught a salmon. Judd spent the past seven of his 79 summers hopefully rowing up and down the Nehalem river, always returning fishless.

Then his luck changed. He hooked a fish, and after an hour and a half battle, boated the 30-pound Chintook

Judd, almost too weary to hold the fish up for a picture, said, "My family thought I couldn't catch a salmon, so I had to show 'em."

In Plain Words by James Marlow

WASHINGTON

You'd better start reading about the Marshall plan, if you haven't done so already.

Whatever this country does about it will affect you in one way or another. No matter who you are.

Briefly, the Marshall plans means giving a lot of helping to Europe for the next four or five years.

James Marlow

Your newspaper will be full of talk, and arguments, about it for weeks to come.

Doing something about the matter is the biggest job ahead of congress.

Here are just two examples of how what is done, or is not done, will touch your life:

1. Many congressmen want to cut your income tax in 1948. But this country cut taxes if we have to dish out billions of dollars for Europe under the Marshall plan.

So, whatever tax cut you get, or don't get, next year will in some way depend upon what we do with the Marshall plan.

2. If we don't help Europe with foods and money, more countries there may turn to Communism out of desperation. A Communist-controlled Europe might shut off, or cut to a dribble, trade with this country.

IN TIME SUCH A BIG CUT IN OUR foreign trade would close down factories here. That would mean unemployment. If unemployment spreads, the whole country will be affected.

Over the weekend President Truman's council of economic advisers gave him a report which said something like this:

We can help Europe under the Marshall plan, all right, but we'll have to do some things in this country to keep on an even keel ourselves.

Before going further into that report, here is a short outline of what the Marshall plan means:

Last June 5 Secretary of State Marshall told the European countries, if they want any more help from us, they must do this:

1. They must get together and try to work out some way of helping themselves. Then, after reaching such an agreement—

2. They can ask us for whatever added help they need from us.

Sixteen European countries—but not Russia or countries tied in with Russia — got together and agreed to help one another.

BUT, IN ADDITION TO THEIR OWN SELF-HELP, they said they'd need about $22,000,000,000 in outside help over the next four years, most of it from us.

(Congress is starting a special session Nov. 17 to consider some immediate help to France and Italy to get them through the winter and to begin studying the Marshall plan itself.

(Some members of congress think both the emergency and long-range Marshall help can be got out of the way during the special session. But others look for final action on the Marshall plan to come during the regular session starting in January.)

To find out whether we can give Europe really big-size help, such as the Marshall plan calls for, Mr. Truman did three things:

1. He asked Secretary Krug of the interior department to make a study and tell him whether this country has the natural resources —like coal, food, iron, steel—to help Europe.

(A couple of weeks ago Krug finished his study and reported to Mr. Truman that we have the resources to do the job.)

2. Mr. Truman asked his special council of economic advisers whether they think this country can safely spare the money and goods to help Europe.

(Over the weekend the economists said we can).

3. He set up a special committee of 19 citizens, under the chairmanship of Secretary of Commerce Harriman, to tell him what they think about our ability to help Europe.

(After making its own study, and reading the reports of Krug and the economic council, this special committee may report this week or next.)

THE ECONOMIC COUNCIL AMONG OTHER things, said the people of this country would have to help pay for the Marshall plan by continuing to pay high taxes.

And it hinted at the need for a return of some kind of price controls over certain things—like wheat and other foods which Europe badly needs—if we're going to send them to Europe without forcing prices sky-high here.

The economic council's report is a long one. So it Krug's. And the president's special committee will probably make a long report, too.

But these reports, containing ammunition for a thousand congressional fights, are only the beginning in the long debates coming up on the Marshall plan.

CHANGES GROOMS WHEN ONE WEDS. Arriving in the U.S. from Shanghai to marry an American sergeant to whom she became engaged in wartime, Russian-born Eroeda Sinitskaya faced deportation when it developed that her groom-to-be had remarried his divorced wife. But there's a happy ending, for she's about to become a bride after all. This time the groom will be Dr. J. Murray Luck (with whom she is shown), who is professor of biochemistry at Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif. (International)

GRANGE BUYS SHARE IN COMMUNITY FUND

Grand Prairie Grange voted to buy one share in Marion's community chest at a meeting Tuesday night, Oct. 28, in the Grange hall. A stuffed toy contest was conducted by the home economics committee with the award going to Mary Alice Linn.

Following the meeting, a miscellaneous shower was held for Mr. and Mrs. Willis Moler, who were recently married. The literary program in keeping with the theme of the shower included a reading, Mrs. Elmer Williams; vocal solo, Jack Lill; Do's and Don'ts for the Model Bride and Bridegroom, by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brewer; mock wedding by the men, Ronald Bibler as the pianist, Glen Lucas, flower girl, Elmer Dean, minister, Paul Lill, bride, Dean Hinamon Jr., bridegroom, and Harold Ludwig and Howard Hinamon, bridesmaids. Two contests closed the program. Refreshments were served at tables decorated in keeping with Halloween.

The Juvenile Grange held a masquerade party at its meeting with first prize going to David Brewer.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

NOEL gave me a shrewd, comprehending look at my request to see Olina alone.

"Something has happened," he said. "I suppose news of Georges But, forgive me. I won't ask any questions."

"I can't answer any now," I said, "until I have talked to Olina. After that, you shall hear any news I have."

I was not sure that I heard his answer aright, but the hasty, carefully muted words sounded like: "I don't want to hear the news."

Then his voice was suddenly normal again.

"I'll get Olina at once," he said, "and then I'll make myself scarce. But come in and sit down, first."

He brought chairs for us, but Dicky shook his head as Noel put me into mine.

"I'm just the Boy Scout doing his good deed for the day," he said; "chivalrously escorting my spouse hither and you. 'Bye, now! Remember, wench, what I told you to do!"

"I'll remember," I said, and Dicky went out of the entrance door as Noel went through the one connecting the living room with the rooms beyond.

In another minute, Olina came hurriedly into the room, her face taut with anxiety.

"Noel said you had a message for me," she began, almost choking on the words. "Have you news —evil news—of Georges?"

"No, no!" I almost shouted. "My news is good. But I must see you in a room where we cannot possibly be overheard, even by Noel."

"The library is best," she decided instantly. "It is soundproof."

She held out her hand to me, and fairly pulled me up from the chair, so impatient was she to hear what I had to tell her. And when we were in the library, with the door closed and locked behind us, she drew a chair opposite the one she had given me and leaned forward, looking into my eyes.

"Tell me, please, quickly," she begged. "I shall not break down."

"I will accept your word on that," I said, "for I want to depend on it." Georges is in the city, alive and well, but hidden carefully. He is marking time until he can see you."

For the fraction of a second, I thought she was going to swoon from sheer joyous relief at the lifting of the fear under which she had lived since the departure of Georges for the hell hole which now was Transvania. Then her training held, and she looked steadily at me from her big lustrous eyes, so like her mother's.

"What wonderful news!" she said, and I knew that she was holding her voice steady with an effort. "Have you seen him, Aunt Madge?"

"Yes, I saw him tonight," I told her. "I have just come home from the Underwoods where he is hiding until tomorrow night, when he is going secretly with Mr. 'K.' and me to the Sag Harbor farmhouse."

"How does he look?" she queried next, and I noticed that not even her craving to see her betrothed was being voiced before she was satisfied as to his well-being.

"Very well," I assured her, "as far as I could tell under the clever disguise with which Mr. Underwood had invested him."

"I wonder whether or not I shall know him," she said.

"He won't be disguised when you see him," I promised her.

"You mean," she said, with a hint of panic in her voice, "that I am not to see him tonight—or tomorrow?"

I bent over, and caught her hands in mine.

"You have been so brave for so long, my dear girl," I said; "keep it up just a little longer. There are wonderful plans afoot for you, but I must not tell you about them. Georges could not come himself to tell you what they were, but he has done the next best thing."

Her face was suddenly illumined, and she put out her hand as I opened my purse.

"A letter!" she whispered. "Georges has written me a letter!"

"A tome, rather," I said, smiling at her. "And now, I am going back in the living room while you read this by yourself. When you have finished it, come and tell me what you think of the plans we have for you."

Roving Reports by Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

TRAVEL notes and anecdotes:

A midwest couple, following the example of many Americans, adopted a French family. Among the first gifts they sent over were a number of food packages.

Back came a letter of thanks from the French housewife:

"We are so grateful for the wonderful food. But I am puzzled as to what I should do to cook the brown stuff. I have baked it, fried it and boiled it—and it still doesn't taste quite right. Could you send me directions?"

The "brown stuff" was peanut butter.

IN A RESORT WE visited the leading spirit in getting people to know each other was a bachelor real estate dealer.

Hal Boyle

We were invited to one of his cocktail parties, and he sent a Negro taxi driver by to pick us up.

"My, what a crowd," said Frances as we drew up to his house.

"That man sure does know how to throw parties," volunteered the driver. "It's like this almost every night here."

"I don't see how he stands the pace," said Frances, shaking her head.

The driver chuckled:

"It's cause he ain't got no wife to tell him he's tired.

NEWSMEN COVERING THE United Nations sometimes get an uneasy feeling that the organization isn't as well known as it might be—for all the reams written about it.

Doubly convinced of this is a reporter who dropped into his favorite restaurant and was asked by the waitress:

"Where you been? Haven't seen you for ages."

"Out at Lake Success," said the newsman.

"That so?" said the pretty dish slinger. "Have a nice vacation?"

She thought Lake Success was a resort. Well, maybe it is at that—the world's last resort.

MEYER ("MIKE") BERGER, a top reporter for the New York Times, tells this one on himself:

While in Rome he had an audience with the Pope who gave him a double-handful of rosaries for Berger to distribute among Catholic friends in New York. Concluding the audience, the Pope said:

"God bless you, my son."

Uncertain how to respond, Berger hesitated, then stammered:

"G G-God bless you, too, sir."

The Pope smiled and Berger left. Later, telling a Manhattan bishop friend about his papal interview, he asked:

"Did I do anything wrong?"

"You didn't do anything wrong, Mike," laughed the tickled bishop, "but you're probably the first Jew in history to bless the Vicar of Christ."

A MAN WHO KNOWS something about car shortages, Charles E. Wilson of General Motors, told a meeting of newspaper executives in Detroit the story of a young married couple who debated whether to buy a new automobile or have a baby. They couldn't afford both.

"They finally decided on the baby," said Wilson, "because they could get it quicker."

Angels Throttle Columbus Chippewas, 32-0

Locals' Powerful Running Game, Timely Passes Prove Too Much For Visitors.

Marion Safety Cab Angels throttled the Columbus Chippewas, 32-0, before 1,500 fans at the Harding stadium Saturday night.

Displaying a powerful running attack with some timely aerials, the locals rolled up a total of 306 yards and had things pretty much their own way. Only once in the second period were the Chippewas able to penetrate to the Cabbies' 20-yard line and then they lost the ball on downs.

Jim Gilmore's recovery of a fumble at midfield set up the first Angel tally. Bob Ivey skirted left end for 25 yards and Reams added 18 more through the line. Ivey went around end to score standing up. On the conversion, Marion was penalized to the 18-yard line, and Simmons heaved a 25-yard pass to Roseberry for the extra point.

Roseberry intercepted an Indian pass on the 50 and galloped to the 18 to set up the second tally. Simmons, Reams, and Ivey moved to the one, and Simmons crashed through for the score.

In the third quarter, a bad pass from to Chippewa center went over Mann's head, and Angel Captain Martin Lewis recovered in the end zone for the third tally. Cheney's conversion was good.

But Reams intercepted a Chippewa pass intended for Hessler to begin the next Angel march. Starting on the Columbus 30, Ivey, Hodges and Scott crashed down to the 10, and Bob Ivey scored standing up on a reverse.

In the forth quarter, the Angels took over on their own 25, and Bob Ivey's 25-yard pass to Howard Richardson put them in Columbus territory again. The ball changed hands twice at midfield because of pass interceptions, but Bob Ivey took a Columbus pass and streaked to the Chippewa 38. Ed Simmons tossed a "sleeper" pass to Max Roseberry who made it to the four before he was caught. Ivey crashed to the one, and Reams went over for the final touchdown.

LAST OF ARMY-IRISH CLASHES SCHEDULED

Notre Dame Set To Avenge War-Time Lashings.

BY STAN OPTOWSKY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov 3 — Notre Dame makes a major lunge at the mythical but nonetheless highly desirable national football championship this week when the Irish, still unbeaten and untied, meet Army in another bid to even up for those war-time lashings.

This is the last of the Army-Notre Dame series, so they say, and it will be held in the quiet collegiate setting of South Bend, Ind., far from the Yankee stadium where some 70,000 of the subway alumni brought with them the horrid taint of commercialism.

A spirited Columbia team took a great deal of edge off this meeting when, forgetting for a moment that it belonged in the Ivy league, it handed Army the first defeat the Cadets had suffered in four years.

That was supposed to be Notre Dame's job The Irish missed out on it last year by playing to scoreless tie, but they had figured that Army would keep until the clash this year. Alas, they were wrong —to the surprise of all, including Columbia.

Notre Dame warmed up for the game Saturday by downing Navy, 27-0, while Army bathed its wounds with a 65 to 13 win over Washington and Lee.

Chisox Owners To Air O'Connor-Chandler Tiff

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 3—Just how far the Chicago White Sox want to string along with Leslie M. O'Connor, their suspended general-manager, in his threatened court fight against Baseball Commissioner A. B Chandler, presumably will be discussed at a meeting of club directors tomorrow.

The meeting was announced by O'Connor, who has done all of the club's talking thus far in his now-celebrated revolt against Chandler's action in suspending O'Connor and the White Sox for refusal to pay a $500 fine assessed for signing a high school pitcher.

JR. ALL STARS SET FOR HARDING SOPHS

Game To Start at 7:30 Tonight Barring Rain.

The best grid talent of the city's three junior high schools will meet the Harding High school sophomores in the Harding stadium tonight at 7:30 p m., barring rain.

The All Star-Harding Soph game was set up to get the junior highs' out of the red in football expenses

Tickets to the event can be purchased at the gate.

Principals of the schools met at Harding this morning to decide whether or not to hold the game tonight in view of the wet grounds and possible afternoon showers, but decided to go ahead with the game if no more rain comes.

All-Star Coach Darl Gatchell listed his probable starting lineup as: ends, Schrader and Bosh, tackles, Snouffer and Geran, guards, Brady and Zahn, center, Daum, quarterback, Reeves, halfbacks, Ulrich and Knisley and fullback, Kennel.

Should the All-Stars start the game defensively, Lewis will start at left end, Geer, at one of the guard posts, and Ludwig at center, Gatchell said.

Probable starting lineup for the sophomores: ends Bechtle and Hoffman, tackles, Messenger and Bomas, guards, Seckle and Thomas, center, Rinnert, quarterback, Williams, halfbacks, Foreman and Dowler, and fullback, Brokaw.

BUCKS LAST CHANCE SEEN THIS SATURDAY

Northwestern Doesn't Look Much Better Than Ohio State.

BY PETE ZURLINDEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, O, Nov. 3—Facts and figures indicated strongly today that unless Ohio State's Buckeyes can defeat Northwestern here Saturday Coach Wes Fesler's eleven may have to be satisfied with but one triumph this season.

Even after losing to Indiana, 7-0, Saturday in their third Big Nine conference game, the Bucks must be rated almost on a par with the Wildcats, roundly spanked by Wisconsin, 29-0, their third league loss against a one-point victory over the Hoosiers.

After Northwestern, the Buckeyes end their home campaign against Illinois, Nov. 15, before closing the season at Ann Arbor in what probably will be Michigan's last hurdle to a Rose Bowl shot. Illinois' stubborn bout with Michigan Saturday proved again that the 1946 Big Nine champs still are a first class team. Michigan is Michigan, leaving little to be said.

Although the most pessimistic must concede that factors like the weather, time-honored rivalry and game-breaks could produce the material for an Ohio upset in the last two games, there remains the certainty that both the Illini and the Wolves will be multi-point favorites for their dates with the Buckeyes.

So, the realists around here are saying, Saturday, Nov. 8, must be the Buckeyes' day if they're going to improve that one victory, four lost, and one tie record

Many watching Coach Fesler's lads against Indiana went away feeling the Buckeyes showed several refinements over performances in games with Purdue Southern California, Iowa and Pittsburgh.

Michigan, Southern California, Roll Toward Rose Bowl

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 — With Michigan and Southern California rolling toward the Rose Bowl on paths that are down hill the rest of the way, college football still had enough names on its list of unbeaten teams today to gladden the hearts of the sponsors of other post-season games.

Such unbeaten powers as Notre Dame, Georgia Tech, Southern Methodist, Pennsylvania, Penn State, Virginia and Utah survived last Saturday's grid battles in which the lone departure from the chosen ranks was made by Texas, squeezed out of the all-victorious group by SMU, 14-13.

Georgia Tech, headed toward the Southeastern conference crown and a possible spot in the Sugar Bowl, kept its record spotless by nosing previously once-tied Duke, 7-0, leaving Southern Cal as the only major club with one deadlock of an otherwise clean slate.

Michigan turned back Illinois, 14-7, and Notre Dame blanked Navy, 27-0, to continue their two-way race for the mythical national title, while Pennsylvania subdued Prince, 26-7, and Penn State crushed Colgate, 46-0, to share top honors in the east

Southern California not only whipped Washington, 19-0, but got an added lift toward the Pacific Coast title when California, humbled by the Trojans a week earlier, bounced back to hand UCLA's defending champions their first conference defeat, 6-0.

The all-victorious list is due for further paring this week when Michigan will be at home against Indiana, first of three undefeated opponents standing in the way of the Wolverines' drive to the Big Nine title and a trip to Pasadena Purdue, which blanked Iowa, 21-0 goes to Minnesota; Iowa to Wisconsin, 29-0 conqueror of Northwestern, and Northwestern to Ohio State, which dropped a 7-6 decision to Indiana, for other Big Nine tilts.

Mississippi State, which dumped Tulane, 20-0, in its only Southeastern conference start, hooks up with Auburn at Birmingham and Mississippi, which held third place in that league by edging Louisiana State, 20-13, meets Tennessee in Memphis. Georgia invades Florida in another conference bout.

Southern Methodist risks its lead in the tough Southwest conference against Texas A. and M. at College Station, while Arkansas, which tied the Aggies, 21-21, invades Rice, and Baylor, tripped by Texas Christian 14-7, visits Texas.

Famed Man O' War To Be Buried Today

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 3—Man O'War, the $5,000 yearling that became one of the turf's top performers and later sired the winners of more money than any other horse, will be buried tomorrow at nearby Faraway Farm. The famous racehorse died Saturday

"Big Red," nearing 31 and living a rocking chair life, died of a heart attack at the farm where he spent his life in the stud and in retirement.

His embalmed body will be taken from his stall at noon Monday and placed in an oak casket

DAYTON NOT READY TO YIELD FRANCHISE

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O, Nov. 3 — There were several bidders today for Dayton's franchise in the Ohio State baseball league but the Dayton club which plans to enter the new Class A Central league is holding on to its OSL franchise, for the time being at least.

Dr. Warren G Bradford, president of the Dayton Indians, told a special meeting of the Ohio State league members yesterday that Dayton was retaining the franchise because various factors might interfere with the new Class A league getting into operation. He said however, that he had been assured by President T. J. Halligan of Flint, Mich, that the Central league would operate

A bid for the Dayton franchise was made by Louis Michel, former Marion Chamber of Commerce secretary, representing the Portsmouth, O., Chamber Portsmouth, he said, had $10,000 to obtain the franchise, improve its park and get ready for Class D baseball. Portsmouth several years ago had a Class A team in the Middle Atlantic league.

Anderson, Ind, also appeared as a likely bidder for Dayton's place in the league which already has two Hoosier teams, Muncie and Richmond The regular fall meeting of the league is scheduled at Springfield, O., Nov. 16.

CHICAGO BEARS BEAT BOSTON YANKS 28-24

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—The Chicago Bears, after a poor start, are very much in the running for Western division honors in the National Football league today, thanks to the generalship of Sid Luckman, star "T" formation quarterback.

Yesterday, Luckman threw four touchdown passes while completing 23 out of 46 attempts for 278 yards to pace the Bears to a 28-24 victory over the Yanks in Boston.

The Chicago Cards snapped their first place deadlock with Green Bay by trimming the Los Angeles Rams, 17-10, while the Packers dropped an 18-17 game to the Pittsburgh Steelers, Eastern division pace-setters in Milwaukee.

The Philadelphia Eagles, trounced the Washington Redskins, 38-14, to remain within a half game of the Steelers, while in a game between the circuit's two cellar-dwellers, the Western division Detroit Lions rolled to a 35-7 win over the New York Giants, defending Eastern half titlist. It was the Lions third victory in two seasons.

Meanwhile, the Cleveland Browns strengthened their first place margin in the Western division race of the All-America conference while the New York Yankees gained undisputed possession of the top rung in the Eastern sector.

The Browns knocked off the Buffalo Bills, 28-7 before 43,167 fans in Buffalo while the Yanks trimmed the Baltimore Colts, 35-21 in the Yankee stadium.

Otto Graham heaved three touchdown passes including one 99-yard pitch and run job to highlight the Browns' eighth win in nine starts The loss dropped the Bills behind the Yanks

San Francisco increased its second place Western half lead over Los Angeles by downing the Dons, 26-16 at Los Angeles. Frankie Albert highlighted the triumph before 53,726 fans by throwing four touchdown aerials

NEW AID FOR GRID FANS

By The Associated Press

PULLMAN, Wash, Nov 3 — Washington State football Coach Phil Sorboe, who once devised a system of jersey numbers for his players to help fans identify backs from linemen during a play, has come up with a new spectator aid

Sorboe has equipped Rogers field with the linemarkers reading "55, 60, 65, 70," and so on up to 90 on each side of the 50-yard line "to eliminate all the adding and subtracting in figuring yardage"

Virginia meets Pennsylvania at Philadelphia in one of the east standout games.

Army, which shook off its loss to Columbia by flattening Washington and Lee, 65-13, goes to South Bend to take a shot at Notre Dame's perfect record in the last game of their popular series.

American Golfers Win Ryder Cup; Beat British

By The Associated Press

PORTLAND, Ore, Nov. 3 — America's golfing supremacy over Britain, at least for 1947, was firmly established today, the result of a smashing finale in the famed Ryder cup competition.

In the revival of the international classic after a decade, the American professional stars handed their British links brothers the worst beating in the history of the event. The score was 11 to 1 out of a possible 12 tallies in the two-day matches.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY HAS POTLUCK SUPPER

A potluck supper was held by the Women's Missionary Society of Emanuel Lutheran church following a recent meeting at the church with 65 members and guests present.

Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Scott Gast. Mrs. Ruth Meck of Columbus, an advisor at Ohio State university, gave a talk on thankoffering in keeping with the society's twenty-fifth thankoffering anniversary. The program included a vocal solo by Mrs. George Turner, accompanied by Mrs. Richard Curran, piano solo, Mrs. Opal Simmons, vocal solo, Mrs. Claude McClaskey, piano solo, Mrs. Curran, and a playlet, "Thankful" by Mrs. Louise Sims, Mrs. H. W. Leffler, Mrs. Carl Hoffman and little Miss Marjorie Umbaugh.

Hostesses in charge of the dinner were Mrs. W. A. Dorsey, chairman, Mrs. L. R. Simmons, Mrs. C. F. Thibaut, Mrs. W. L. Wick, Mrs. W. F. Waeiska and Mrs. Matilda Sinning.

The first mechanical process for the manufacture of felt is believed to have been discovered about 1820.

Thomas Edison built his first model of an electric locomotive in 1880.

Programs on the Air

The discovery of the art of glass blowing and the story of how it first was introduced 2,000 years ago will be included in "And It Shall Be Given to You," the dramatization scheduled for the ABC broadcast on The Greatest Story Ever Told over ABC on Sunday, Nov. 9, at 6:30 p. m. The story tells also of the business troubles of a glass shop owner who nearly is forced out of business by the threats of gangster methods by a Roman. The shopkeeper asks The Master for help in protecting himself against his powerful and unscrupulous rival. The solution offered by The Master is contained in the Biblical quotation in Luke 6:28: "Bless them that curse you and pray for them which despitefully use you." How the supplicator applies this lesson to his own problem provides an absorbing and revealing answer.

President Harry S. Truman will get his first look at himself on a television screen on Monday, Nov. 10, at the White House. On that date, a two-reel television film produced by the American Broadcasting Company under the supervision of Paul Mowrey, the network's director of television, will be shown at the White House to President Truman and officials of the President's Highway Safety Conference. The 19-minute film, to be televised directly over WMAL-TV, opens and closes with views of President Truman addressing a meeting of the Highway Safety Conference.

All times given are Eastern Standard Time. Erroneous listings, if any, are caused by last-minute changes made by stations and networks.

Municipal Issues To Mark Galion Election

Special to The Star

GALION, Nov. 3—With both mayoralty candidates announcing a platform for a better city government, based on harmony and action to better solve the city's many problems, voters will probably be scratching their heads which way to vote when they go to the polls Tuesday.

Harry T. Jackson, Republican candidate for mayor, and Dr. H. H. Hartmann, Democrat, former mayor of Galion for 18 years, are asking citizens to vote for "officials who will work together for the mutual good of the town," and for "those with qualification and experience," respectively.

In addition to the city government positions to be filled, the proposed school levy and bond issue will be given to Galion citizens for a vote and the Crawford county bond issue for the fairgrounds program.

I BOW TO MAMA'S EAR DRUMS... THE CORNET IS OUT.. BUT, DEAREST, I STILL INSIST THAT WHAT YOU NEED IS A HOBBY!
YOU'RE MY HOBBY, DARLING..
BUT SERIOUSLY, MILLIE DEAR...WE MUST SELECT SOMETHING THAT'LL HOLD YOUR INTEREST FOR A LONG TIME...
HMPF...WHY NOT HAVE HER RAISE CENTURY PLANTS?
WILL ART DO? I GOT A B-PLUS IN DRAWING WHEN I WAS IN HIGH SCHOOL...
ART? SPLENDID!! I'M SURE MAMA CAN'T OBJECT TO THAT!!
CHECK...IT'S EASIER TO KEEP MY EYES CLOSED THAN MY EARS!
